By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1929, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

DETROIT, MICH., DEC. 6.—The Detroit Times today inaugurates its new plant and extravagantly handsome new building. Nearly everybody was there to congratulate Mr. Andrews, the publisher, and Mr. Hearst, the owner, both present.

The Detroit Times when bought from its former owners about eight years ago had less than 50,000 circulation. It has risen to 300,000 now and sells at 3 cents a copy instead of 2 cents, the former price.

This city, full of energy, is not suffering about the recent upset in far off Wall Street. For instance, the new store of the J. L. Hudson Co. is doing business at the rate of $75,000,000 a year, third biggest dry goods store in the U. S. That interests merchants.

R. H. Weber, who runs and owns the store with his three brothers, wonders whether Marshall Field in Chicago or Macy in New York have the nation's biggest retail business. Marshall Field, with over a hundred millions a year, is probably in the lead. Macy, doing more than ninety millions, is catching up rapidly; everything gets bigger and bigger.

The Hearst publications, a fact that will interest publishers, do a business of two hundred million dollars a year.

When Hearst, on leaving Harvard, told his father he wanted to go into the newspaper business and run the San Francisco Examiner, his father, Senator Hearst, replied:

"All right, but what REAL business do you want to go into?" Any business can be made a real business if you understand it and attend to it.

Henry Ford, who was at luncheon with the Times editors and their friends, took some of them, including W. R. Hearst, to the Ford factory. They were the first to see the new 1930 Ford motor coming down the line with deeper, narrower radiators, changed mud guards, lower roof, and lower price.

The visitors drove literally for miles through Ford factories, rolling mills, blast furnaces, going in automobiles to the second floor of the various factories and riding the full length.

The new steamships that the government built and never sent to sea were being cut into pieces, some to be melted and changed into Ford cars.

In the line of moving automobiles, the "line of production," they saw a new feature. The workmen no longer walk along the line, keeping up with slowly moving machines, but are covered with rubber, on which they stand, moves with them.

The visitors also saw "Russia" in a large laboratory turned over to engineers, mechanics and draftsmen sent over by the Russian government to learn how automobiles are made.

Extremely intelligent men are those Russians, eager to take back to their country the industrial efficiency of the United States. They will do it.

One of them, a concentrated young Russian engineer, said:

"I hear Americans say that our government and those that run it will not be there 10 years hence.

"All things may be. But at least in 10 years our government, which belongs to the people, will make a great change in Russia and for the better."

Henry Ford has his engineers in Russia, showing how to establish factories, and the Ford Company, like the General Electric, has given Russia credit for tens of millions to make industrial building possible.

Ford's idea of American participation in Europe's affairs is to help with our knowledge and our money, establish American plants in European countries, to show how things should be done, and otherwise mind our business.

Of all that Henry Ford has to show, what interested him most was a dancing class in his big "experimental" building for the public school children of Dearborn.

More than one hundred young boys and girls were there dancing an old-fashioned quadrille, with good instructors, as solemn as little owls, ENJOYING THEMSELVES. Six hundred public school children are in this Ford dancing class.

Friendly warning to workers throughout the country: Do not crowd in to Detroit under the false impression that you will find jobs at high wages waiting for you.

Cities and their industrial populations must grow gradually. This is not a time to move.

Suggestion for all employers: R. H. Weber, of J. L. Hudson's, 10 years older than his brothers, is the active head of the store. He is 70 years old. He works hard, and he says that he has never had a day's illness in his life.

51 DEAD IN BIG STORM ABROAD

British Isles Are Swept by Gales; Lightning Bolt Strikes Cunarder

London, Dec. 7—The toll of dead in the terrific storm which have been sweeping Britain for the last 72 hours jumped to 51 today when the Cardiff steamer Radyr found dered off Hartland Point, Devon, with the loss of its crew of 25.

Twenty-six deaths previously had been reported as the result of shipping and other accidents due to the gales which have paralyzed transportation in the English channel and caused considerable damage to property.

The Radyr was a vessel of 2381 tons. Little is known of the disaster save that the ship foundered in the heavy seas and its crew drowned before they could be rescued.

A bolt of lightning struck the Cunard liner Lancastria as she lay in Cherbourg harbor taking aboard passengers bound for New York according to messages from France.

The Cherbourg passengers were boarding the liner from a tender when the lightning bolt struck the huge steamer throwing the voyagers into momentary panic.

LINER IN DARKNESS.

The shock was felt all over the vessel, and the passengers climbing aboard the Lancastria by means of a gangplank thrown up from the tender clung to the handrails in fright. It was seen, almost immediately, however, that no serious damage had been done, and the passengers continued their journey up the gangplank.

Owing to the overcast skies, the Lancastria's lights were blazing in full when the lightning bolt, accompanied by a deafening crash, disrupted the ship's electrical system and plunged the steamer into darkness.

TREASURE SHIP "MISSING"

Repair men were immediately put to work restoring the Lancastria's electrical system. The Lancastria then continued on to New York.

Of the present total of 51 deaths, 19 were caused when the British steamer Frances Duncan foundered in the channel. Seven persons were killed throughout England by the storms, some by falling walls and trees and in other accidents directly due to the terrific gales.

London felt the full fury of the gale, which was accompanied by an electrical display uncommon in this country.

Somewhere in the Bay of Biscay or the outer channel the treasure ship Leonardo Da Vinci, from Italy, with pictures valued at $70,000,000 in her hold, was believed

10,000 Mob Santa, Forced Down at Lowell in Plane

Lowell, Dec. 7 (AP)—Unless 10,000 children can be wrong, there is a Santa Claus.

Police said there were that many who mobbed Mr. Kringle when he dropped from the clouds here today via an airplane and parachute. Visibility was so poor that the airplane was hidden from sight, and Santa, with his white whiskers streaming, did not come into view until he had descended to within 500 feet of the ground.

INJURIES FATAL TO COASTER, 15

Paul F. Hawkes, 15, of 27 Howard st., Arlington Heights, son of Franklin P. Hawkes, principal of the junior high school in that section, died today in Symmes Arlington hospital, the winter's first coasting victim in Arlington.

He was struck Thursday night while coasting in Appleton st., by an automobile operated by James D. O'Brien of Claremont ave., Arlington Heights. He was taken to the hospital suffering from a fractured skull.

Robbed Jeweler Is Enforced Bankrupt

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in federal court today against Julius Prince, a jeweler of 333 Washington st., Boston.

Prince is the jeweler who reported to police on Wednesday the loss of $65,000 worth of diamonds in a bold daylight robbery engineered by a man and a girl who held him up.

The creditors who petitioned him into bankruptcy are Harry Furst, with a claim of $1750, S. Halper, with a claim of $1067 and Morris Rindet, with a claim of $1900. All these petitioners live in New York and each claim is for diamonds sold and delivered to Prince and which payment has not been received.

Little to Coach Columbia Eleven

Little has been the head coach at Georgetown, where he has met with great success. Little, who hails from Leominster, Mass., starred for Pennsylvania and coached the Red and Blue before he took over the Georgetown berth.

Due to the fact that Lou Little has not made a final decision as to his assistants, the announcement of his signing to coach Columbia has been withheld by the New York institution.

ASKS GOVERNOR ALLEN TO ACT IN RITCHIE CASE

Chief Executive Is Not Likely to Issue Orders to "L" Trustees on Posters

Governor Frank G. Allen was today asked to aid in the Boston visit of Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, who speaks on prohibition here Tuesday.

Atty. William H. Mitchell, chairman of the executive committee of Liberal Civic League, asked the Governor to direct the public trustees of the Boston Elevated Railway Co. to reverse their decision and permit posters on trolley cars to advertise the meeting in Symphony Hall Tuesday night, at which Governor Ritchie will be principal speaker.

Gov. Allen declined to discuss Atty. Mitchell's letter but it is expected he will assume a hands-off attitude toward it, as its policy is not to interfere with administrative acts of the trustees of the road.

WILL CALL ON ALLEN

Coincident with this action came announcement from Gov. Ritchie at Annapolis that he will positively speak in Symphony hall Tuesday evening despite the opposition that has arisen from many quarters. He also said he will call upon Gov. Allen at the executive offices in the State House, Tuesday, having been informed that Gov. Allen said he would not be embarrassed by such a visit.

Gov. Allen said today that a committee called on him two weeks ago and asked him if he would be willing to receive Gov.

GIRL IS KILLED, MAN DYING, IN CRASH

Two Others Injured as Auto Skids and Hits Tree Near the Governor's Home

A girl was killed, the name of a man is on the danger list, and two other persons were seriously injured, as a result of an automobile crash today on Walpole st., Norwood, near the home of Governor Allen.

DEAD

DYING

SERIOUSLY INJURED

He said the car operated by Miller skidded on the ice pavement, crashing into a tree.

When McMillen arrived at the scene Miss Balboni was dead, and Miller was unconscious. All the victims were rushed to the Norwood hospital by police. It was feared that Miller would not recover.

Miss Balboni was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Attilo Balboni, her father a wealthy trucking contractor. She was graduated from Norwood high school in 1922 and was an amateur actress of note.

U.S. CRUISER AND MORE TROOPS ON WAY

Five Natives Slain in Clash; Hoover Asks for Action by Congress

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Brig.-Gen. John H. Russell, American high commissioner to Haiti, today requested that the cruiser Galveston be ordered immediately from the Guantanamo naval base to Port-au-Prince in Haiti.

Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Dec. 7 (AP)—A body of 1,200 natives who attempted to invade the city of Aux Cayes late yesterday afternoon armed with machetes, clubs and sticks clashed with a marine patrol. Five of the invader were killed and 20 wounded.

The invading band came from an outlying section. They met a marine patrol of 20 men under command of Capt. Roy Gwinn of the National Garde.

For an hour a parley was held, and the soldiers were surrounded. Then three volleys overhead and then opened effective firing with the machine gun and six automatic rifles. None of the defenders was injured.

Hoover Asks Special Commission for Haiti

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—President Hoover today asked Congress for authority to create a commission to inquire into the whole subject of Haitian relations with the United States. He asked an appropriation of $50,000 for the commission's expenses.

"Our experience has revealed more clearly than seen at first," he said, "many defects in the whole problem and the entire situation should be reviewed in the light of this experience."

Reinforcements of marines were on the way to Haiti even while the special message of President Hoover was being read to the House.

Secretary Stimson placed the number at 500 and said that on request of Brig.-Gen. Russell, American high commissioner in Haiti, the entire Galveston would be sent from Guantanamo to the disturbed republic.

WOMEN, CHILDREN TO GO.

While the commissioner reported no alarm at Aux Cayes, he disclosed he had arranged for the evacuation of American women and children from the port today by steamer.

In a dispatch to Secretary Stimson the commissioner said the opposition press and agitators had inflamed the country and that it was rumored the people are in revolt aboard the city of Jacmel, where papers have been seized and many automatic pistols had come into the country from Guatemala.

The telephone line from Gobedere to Jacmel and the line from Gonaives to Grosmore have been cut.

The Secretary of State described the situation as "distressing" but added that it would be dealt with in the light of full publicity.

Mr. Hoover in his message reviewed events leading up to the disturbances which began October 31 with a strike of students.

MESSAGE REFERRED.

Because the Senate was not in session, the message was delivered to the House alone. One of the first to comment was Chairman Britten of the House Naval committee, who said marines never shoot unless in a specific cause and in line of duty.

Representative Garner of Texas, Democratic leader, described it as "very unfortunate," adding: "Many

SENATORS BACK TAX CUT BILL

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Senate finance committee today reported favorably on the $160,000,000 tax reduction resolution.

The committee was unanimous.

The resolution, previously approved by the House, proposes a one per cent reduction in the tax rates on individual and corporation incomes.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader and a member of the committee, said after the meeting that while he had not definitely decided to call the measure up in the Senate Monday, he believed that would be done. He added he did not look for serious opposition.

Under Secretary Mills of the Treasury appeared before the committee and explained in detail the proposed reduction.

Taxation Imposed on Earned Incomes Most Unjust, Exorbitant

AN imposing procession of representatives of all the professions who earn their incomes was presented to Congress today. A petition to abolish or at least modify the most unjust tax ever imposed upon the people of this country since the first foundation of the Colonies.

The tea tax, the stamp tax and the other unjust taxes which brought about our war for independence against England are as nothing compared with the confiscation-of-capital tax imposed upon those whose temporary physical and mental abilities enable them to earn money for a brief period, which money thus earned for a limited time, IS NOT ONLY THEIR INCOME BUT THEIR ACCUMULATED CAPITAL

Abroad, Uncle Sam is known as Uncle Shylock. There he is most unjustly called Uncle Shylock, because there he is nothing less than Uncle Santa Claus, having forgiven those foreign nations half of the debt which he might have used to alleviate taxation at home.

But here at home he often comes perilously near to being Uncle Shylock, and never does he more nearly deserve that title than in the excessive and outrageous confiscatory tax which he imposes upon earned incomes.

The policy of this Bolshevist principle of appropriation of capital is unsound at the base, and in addition the methods of the tax collectors are almost as oppressive as the methods of the tax collectors who brought on the French Revolution

GRAB SEVEN IN SMUGGLE PLOT

Evidence of a big plot to smuggle aliens into this country was uncovered today by federal officials, who found five Spanish and two Chinese stowaways on the Italian steamship Conte Biancamano, after the vessel docked in Boston.

All seven were locked and deported by special boards of inquiry that convened in the immigration office at East Boston.

Today, during which the boards ran seven at this port.

The five Spaniards were found under planks which separated the heavy logs of sugar that comprised the cargo of the liner. Deputy Collector Thomas F. Finnegan and his squad of 12 men who located the stowaways said the hiding place seemed to have been prepared for the men.

All were in good physical condition, it was reported, as they left the cargo hold from Matanzas, Cuba. The crew of the ship said they knew nothing about the stowaways. The two Chinese stowaways were found wedged in a shaft alley.

making her way through the storm-swept seas to England, where the pictures are to be put on exhibition.

Each day the ship has been sending a wireless message on her progress, and at 8 o'clock last evening reported she had passed Gibraltar making good speed. Up to midday today her usual daily message had not been received by the exhibition managers, and it was awaited with some anxiety, in view of the weather and the precious nature of the ship's cargo. An Italian naval tug is escorting the steamer.

TANKER DRIVEN ASHORE.

The Italian tanker Licania was driven ashore at Dover Sunday night, while the French steamer Ornais II. was wrecked off Pont-en-esnes. The crew of the Ornais was rescued by lifeboats putting out from shore, and the Licania was refloated with the high tide.

All Channel boats operating between Calais and Boulogne were tied up at their piers today, unable to venture out into the whitecapped Channel.

The Blue Star liner Andalusia, bound from London for South America with 129 passengers, sustained damage to her rudder in the gale off Plymouth. Temporary repairs were effected and the Andalusia arrived at Falmouth under her own steam.

As the day wore on the list of vessels in distress continued to grow, until at least a score reported in dangerous straits. Many of the ships were British, but others were Norwegian, Dutch, Hungarian, Spanish, French and Italian.

The schooner Morgan Koch, bound for Spain, went ashore near Seaford and her crew was rescued by the New Haven lifeboat at great risk of life through mountainous waves.

The steamer Neville went ashore off Hastings Island and, while her crew was safe, was in a dangerous position.

CREW TAKES TO BOATS

The crew of the Italian steamer Cosmona was reported taking to lifeboats while the Spanish steamer Gabianes reported to the Land's End wireless station that she required immediate assistance.

A vessel, the identity of which could not be ascertained, was reported in distress near Dungeness with a steamer standing by unable to render help until the weather moderated.

The Elder Dempster Company's passenger liner Aba, 7267 tons, bound for West Africa from Liverpool, wirelessed today that she was in distress 70 miles off Ushant. The vessel reported her steering gear disabled by the gale and asked immediate assistance.

Tempestuous conditions prevailed at Liverpool and the gale was so strong that liners were unable to reach the landing stages in the river. The Carmina was unable to take on passengers and American mails were being taken to her by a tender.

The liners Minnedosa and Desnado, inward-bound, were in the river unable to disembark their passengers.

The Firth of Forth and the east coast of Scotland also were swept by fierce seas. The steamer Oakgrove was buried under the sea, but refloated later. A lifeboat and lifelines were used to rescue the crew of a fishing boat which was trying to enter Girvan harbor.

Lloyds reported that the liner Aba, from Liverpool for West Africa, was asking assistance. Her steering gear was disabled 70 miles west of Ushant. The Aba, 7,000 tons, is understood to carry a number of passengers.

or those against whom Jesus preached when He arraigned the publicans and sinners.

Many a man whose services the public have tried to reward with adequate compensation during the brief period of his activity has been left a pauper in his later years by these modern publicans going over and over his accounts and adding taxation upon taxation until his earnings were dissipated and his capital confiscated.

Many a widow has been brought to penury by the unjust provisions of this confiscatory law and the oppressive methods of the tax collectors.

In fact the cruelties of this confiscatory tax on earned incomes, pushed to extremes by the eager zeal of the tax-collectors, are unlimited.

The injuries wrought in the past can probably not be corrected.

The many who received the deserved plaudits and rewards of their fellow-countrymen, still to go down to their graves impoverished, under this socialistic system of capital confiscation and cannot be recalled.

But for the benefit of those who are still alive, the system can be stopped. We can end the governmental policy of making paupers of the most worthy and most serviceable element in our community.

We can have mentality enough to see clearly that at least half of an income which is earned for a limited period through service to one's fellow men, may be legitimately conceived as capital and not subject to confiscation, and the other half regarded as income subject to proper taxation.

Our Uncle Sam is rich.

He is rich enough to play Santa Claus abroad, and to give hundreds of thousands of millions of dollars to foreign countries and foreign peoples, whom he is under no obligation to favor.

He is, therefore, rich enough not to be Uncle Shylock at home, and not to swell his already bursting treasury through a Bolshevist policy of capital confiscation of earned income.

PROBE SCHOOL DRUG SALES

New York, Dec. 7 (INS)—A rigid investigation of charges that narcotics were being sold to high school children in the Flatbush section of Brooklyn was being made here today following the arrest of two youths on charges of violating the Harrison Narcotic Act.

The youths, William Goldstein, 16, a student at the Alexander high school, Brooklyn, and Solomon Rachelson, 17, a student at Colby Preparatory academy, were arrested by Max Roder, a federal narcotic agent.

Roder alleges that he purchased 80 grains of morphine for $28 from Goldstein at a Brooklyn street corner and that Rachelson stood nearby during the transaction and acted as lookout for Goldstein.

Both boys were arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Edward E. Fay in Brooklyn. Goldstein was held in $2500 bail for the action of the federal grand jury, while Rachelson was held in $2500 bail for a further hearing on Dec. 18.

Valuable advice for publishers, given by Paul Block, who owns newspapers in Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, Toledo, Newark, Brooklyn and elsewhere.

"The price of print paper is to be increased. Publishers, rather than raise advertising rates, should meet that situation by reducing the size of their papers and their consumption of newsprint by 10 per cent. Doing that intelligently, they will improve their newspapers and more than offset the increased cost of white paper.

"On one of my papers the proposed increase in paper price will cost me $100,000 a year. Cutting the size of the paper 10 per cent will save me $156,000 a year.

"Publishers should remember the postscript to Madame De Sevigne's letter to her daughter: 'If I had more time I should have written you a shorter letter.'"

MARTIAL LAW IS DECLARED IN SHANGHAI

British Warship to Remove Women and Children From Nanking

Nanking, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Nationalist foreign office announced tonight that the government had approved the Mukden-Moscow preliminary agreement for settlement of the Chinese Eastern Railway dispute in Manchuria.

Shanghai, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Chinese commissioner of defense declared martial law tonight in the Chinese portions of Shanghai.

The Shanghai-Nanking railway placed special armed guards along the line as far as Wusih, 73 miles from Shanghai. Special guards also were stationed along the Shanghai-Hanchow railway.

Advices from Changchow state that the British cruiser Suffolk is leaving for Nanking tomorrow morning to evacuate British women and children.

Three regiments of government troops were reported to have rebelled and telephonic communication between Shanghai and Nanking has been interrupted.

No trains are running between the two cities because of the threat offered Nanking with the rebels promising to swoop on the capital from Pukow.

U. S. Asked Afghanistan's Aid in China-Russia Move

Paris, Dec. 7 (AP)—Only today did the reply of Maxim Litvinoff, for Soviet Russia, to the American note on the Sino-Russian conflict reach the American embassy in Paris.

It appeared the French embassy at Moscow had to translate it from Russian into French and put it into code for transmission to Paris.

In Paris the Foreign Office decoded the message and handed it over to the American embassy, where it was translated into English and code for transmission to Washington.

It was learned the French government on behalf of Washington transmitted the American communication to Afghanistan urging it in the case of all other signatories of the Kellogg pact that that country support the American initiative in China and Russia.

Governor refused to discuss why he declined to accept an invitation to attend the luncheon to Gov. Ritchie at Hotel Statler Tuesday noon, or why he declined to accept an invitation to attend the meeting in Symphony Hall Tuesday evening. He also declined to say anything about the letter he received from Atty. Mitchell asking him to direct the El trustees to alter their decision relative to car advertising.

"I see no reason why the management of Treasure Temple should have refused permission for me to speak there," said Gov. Ritchie today, "I can't understand their attitude.

"I have no wish to go to Boston for this occasion unless it is considered that Rhode Island's experience without a dry law would be helpful for the people to hear. I don't see how it is going to help them and I have been told it might help them."

In his letter to Gov. Allen, Atty. Mitchell wrote: "We submit that, as a matter of free speech, fair play, good sportsmanship and even as a matter of courtesy to a distinguished guest, the governor of another state, that our request should have been granted by the board of trustees of the Boston Elevated, whether its membership is dry, wet or inbetween on the issue of prohibition."

"The new stock is to be put, for the bank itself out of its undivided profits," said the announcement.

PROSECUTION IN LOTTERY CASE COLLAPSES

Police Can't Find Man in the Pool to Which Garrett's Name Was Linked

Further prosecution in connection with the "Onlywon" lottery, with which the name of Oliver B. Garrett was linked, collapsed today when police said they could not find a defaulted defendant.

The missing man is Charles Pacci of Massachusetts ave., South End, arrested with Oscar Magerer when police raided the Hanover st. plant where the pool tickets were printed.

Atty. Herbert Callahan and Magerer waited around the corridors outside Municipal court for some time, but on the failure of Sergt. Benjamin Wall of Division 2 to appear, left the building.

Later Special Officer Louis Morton, who, with Wall and Special Officer Schultz, raided the printing plant, arrived at the courthouse, but made no application for warrants.

It was understood Wall, who had previously left the country, is depended on Pacci for evidence on which to obtain warrants for the sponsors of the lottery. It was given up the idea because of the man's disappearance.

Police and Department of Justice agents were said to have searched unsuccessfully for Pacci, but were forced to conclude he could not be found.

MERGER PLAN IS MENACED

Washington, Dec. 7—Any consolidation of New England railroads into one system is frowned upon by the Interstate Commerce Commission, according to a report current today.

The hopes of New England Governors and industrial leaders for a merger of at least two of the roads will be blasted, it is said, by Interstate Commerce Commissioner Eastman's plans of consolidation, not yet made public.

This plan, it is reported, divides the New England roads among three systems, with the New Haven going to the Pennsylvania, the Boston & Albany to the New York Central, which now controls it under lease, and the Boston & Maine to another system, probably the Baltimore & Ohio.

If the report is well founded, Pennsylvania interests to gain control of the Boston & Maine through stock purchase by Pennroad Corp. is balked and especially manager of the B. & M. and the New Haven under Pennsylvania control will not take place.

MARINES SLAY FIVE IN HAITI

New Battalion of Marines Off Today for Port au Prince

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 7 (AP)—Serving as an outpost for a battalion of marines to reinforce those already in Haiti, the aircraft squadron's flagship, the Wright, the naval operating base at Hampton Roads with some 500 officers and men today.

The Wright was loaded with supplies, munitions and men at 10 a. m. and was ready to sail on the afternoon tide about 2:30. The naval base barracks contributed a detachment of about 75 men commanded by Capt. Erwin Mehlinger.

A detachment of nearly 300 marines arrived from Quantico and later 200 arrived from Parris Island, S. C., and the battalion was formed under command of Maj. Louis E. Fagan.

The Wright will reach Port Au Prince probably by Wednesday or Thursday.

Hoover Sends Message to Congress on Haiti

The Administration took action after Secretary Stimson had received word from the American High Commissioner, Brig. Gen. John H. Russell, saying he feared a "serious situation."

The President's message was sent to the Capitol by a White House messenger, but Congress had adjourned. Disclosure of its contents was deferred until the assembling of the House today. The Senate is in recess until Monday.

The house, as soon as reading of the President's message was completed, referred the communication to its foreign affairs committee.

Chairman Porter of the committee announced he would introduce a resolution not later than Monday to carry out Mr. Hoover's suggestion.

vision in the federal tax on earned incomes.

Through the presentation of the petitions and the presence of many of America's outstanding persons, ages in professional life, the voice of the millions will reverberate significantly through the halls of Congress.

Flanked by a delegation of international celebrities, a detachment of uniformed color bearers and a representative group of citizens of Washington, Senator Reed Smoot and Representative Willis Hawley, chairmen of the Senate and House finance committees received the petitions on the east plaza of the Capitol at 1 o'clock today.

Senator Smoot and Representative Hawley had with them the other members of their respective committees, and many other lawmakers.

While a number of participants in the parade rode in open automobiles and the representatives of the disabled American veterans of the World War from Walter Reed and other hospitals occupied buses, all others marched afoot.

Prominent in the column of marchers were detachments from the Veterans of Foreign Wars, headed by Capt. Harvey L. Miller, department commander, and accompanied by their band of 93 musicians; the American Legion, led by Major L. E. Atkins, department commander; Army and Navy Union, headed by Col. W. H. McKelvey; disabled American Veterans of the World War, led by Comdr. E. Claude Babcock, and delegations of veterans not affiliated with any organization.

In addition to the large delegation of celebrities who came to Washington last night from New York to participate in today's parade, a number of others from Philadelphia, Baltimore, Richmond and other cities.

The petitions, originated, circulated, collected and tabulated by the transcontinental chain of Hearst newspapers, were presented to Congress in huge wicker baskets. More than a dozen of those baskets.

Hub Folk Join in Tax Revision Plea

Teachers, coal dealers, farmers, railroad men and electricians are among those who have signified their desires to Congress for a tax revision of incomes in no less than is outlined in the bill now before the Senate.

Representatives of these occupations have signed the income tax blank petition printed elsewhere in today's issue of the Boston Evening American is receiving these expressions of opinion and forwarding them to Congress and the President.

Among those whose letters arrived in today's mail were:

PONTIFF GREETS CROWN PRINCE, 2 PRINCESSES

Beautiful Gifts Exchanged; Holy Father Congratulates Humbert on Betrothal

Rome, Dec. 7 (AP)—Crown Prince Humbert and his younger sisters, Princess Giovanna and Maria, drove today from the Quirinal palace to the Vatican and paid their respects to Pope Pius XI.

They were accompanied by Count De Vecchi, Italian Ambassador to the Holy See, who introduced them to the Pope. It was the first time Humbert, Giovanna and Maria had seen the Pontiff.

Troops stood at attention as the children of King Victor Emanuel passed by. The crowds cheered the royal trio to the echo.

The princes and princesses ascended the spacious stairs leading to the Pope's apartment on the third floor. At each landing Swiss guards in their full uniform, designed by Michelangelo, with breastplates, helmets and halberds, saluted them.

In the throne room Count De Vecchi presented Humbert, then Giovanna and then Maria. The three knelt and kissed the Pope's hands. Pius immediately raised them to their feet.

The Pope spoke kindly and cordially to the Crown Prince. He congratulated him on his forthcoming marriage to Princes Marie Jose of Belgium. He wished him happiness and gave him his blessing.

The Pope was particularly kind to the Crown Prince because Humbert is known as a friend of the church. He is a close personal friend of Cardinal Gamba of Turin, where the prince makes his home. Cardinal Gamba may perform the ceremony of the prince's wedding, January 8. The Pope and the prince, moreover, have this in common, they both come from the north of Italy, the Pope having been cardinal-archbishop of Milan before he was elevated to the Papacy.

The crown prince presented the Pope with some superb artistic gold plate and the two princesses gave him two large silver vases worked in bas relief. The Pope's gifts to Humbert were three examples of the Jubilee medals done in gold, silver and bronze, and a beautiful miniature of himself.

Salvage Experts Virtually Abandon Hope of Saving $300,000 Yacht

New Bedford, Dec. 7—Showing indications of breaking up, Edsel Ford's $300,000 new yacht Sialia was still fast on Old Cock ledge, east of Hen and Chickens reef, today.

Representatives of the Merritt-Scott-Chapman Wrecking Co. went out to look over the craft with a view to salvaging her if possible, but although the seas were calm it was considered a practical impossibility.

Capt. Oscar Anderson and the crew of the Sialia, who were taken off by the coast guard, also returned to the scene in the hope of seeing the yacht saved. A coast guard boat was standing by.

The wreck of the vessel, launched last month at the Lawley yards in Neponset, cost the life of Capt. Albert Berger, a local fisherman, and injuries to two of the yacht's own crew.

Clifford S. Kilburn, local shipbuilder, and Max Chapman, who were in a dory with Berger on the way to view the wreckage, were swept against the side of the yacht when their dory upset in the heavy sea. Berger was drowned.

Christmas Trees for 144,000 Homes

St. Albans, Vt., Dec. 7 (AP)—Christmas trees enough to brighten 144,000 homes have been shipped out of the state during the past week, railroad officials announced today. Approximately 100,000 additional trees will be shipped next week. Only fir, balsam and spruce trees are being used this year because of the Department of Agriculture's ban on pine trees.

Boy's Tongue Sticks to Frosted Rail

Booneville, Ark., Dec. 7 (AP)—Roy Houston, 10, once doubtful, is now firmly convinced that one's tongue will stick on frosted steel. He tried it on a rail as a locomotive approached. It was so. The locomotive was switched to another track and steam was turned on the rail till he could get his tongue off.

Pilot on Vacation Hangs Around Dock

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Bill McLaughlin is a pilot who takes big ships down the harbor or meets them and guides them to their docks. He is now on a vacation. But each of his first day off he spent watching the Leviathan being docked by one of his colleagues. When he retires he hopes to make a voyage around the world.

TELEVISION SET SOLD FOR RADIO

This invention projects colored images on a screen 10 inches high and a foot wide, a size convenient for the average radio set.

The invention has just been launched by the Kemper Radio Corp., which intends to sell radio sets equipped with this addition. The inventor is Philo Farnsworth, Utah youth, still in his 20s.

The operation of the combined set is regarded as very simple, and the price is said to be within moderate range. The projection of the image is reported to be surprisingly accurate.

Corwin Gets Post

Bat, Not of Rum Sort, Plays Havoc at Yale

New Haven, Ct., Dec. 7 (AP)—As a cat may look at a queen. So may a bat attend a conference of the faculty of Yale graduate school. But results may not always be the same. Eli students today are discussing the manner in which a tiny member of the species chiropters broke up a meeting of the faculty at its most profound moment.

Dean Cross was summing up the session; discussion when a squeak interrupted him. He paused, then proceeded. More squeaks. More pause. Bewildered pedagogues began to crane their necks. Chairs were shuffled. But above the noise thus made rose a succession of weird chitterings.

Prof. Harrison of the biology department spied the bat hiding beneath a chair. His scientific instincts prompted the quick dive he made for the vampire. It eluded him.

Prof. Ferris of the anatomy department joined in the pursuit. A moment later the room was confusion. Dean Cross adjourned the session. But the fate of the bat is still to be written.

Famed Army General Is Dead in London

London, Dec. 7 (AP)—Gen. Sir Charles Monro, famous British soldier, who won wide praise for his successful withdrawal of British and Anzac troops from the Gallipoli peninsula during the World War, died today in London. He was 69 years old.

Sir Charles joined the army in 1879 and saw service at Malakand and later was on the staff in South Africa. He was in command of the Second Division in the first fighting in 1914 and later was given command of the First Army Corps.

Santa Claus Coming Light to Wall St.

New York, Dec. 7—Christmas bonus payments to Wall st. employes will be cut about in half this year, as compared with 1928 distributions, and many of the salary increases that generally go into effect the first of the year will not be made.

The market break, in which many firms lost money, and the payment of bonuses and overtime wages to employes during the big trading days are the reasons given for the economy moves.

Fr. Sohon Georgetown Observatory Head

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Rev. Frederick Wyatt Sohon, S. J., has been appointed director of the Georgetown University seismological observatory, succeeding the Rev. Francis A. Tondorf, who died recently after holding that post for more than a quarter of a century.

Father Sohon is widely known as an astronomer and earthquake authority and a few years ago was in charge of the seismological apparatus at Fordham University.

LEGAL ALCOHOL PRODUCTION INCREASES

Gain of 31,000,000 Gallons Over Previous Year Is Reported by Doran

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—The production of alcohol, by legal processes, is increasing.

Making his annual report today, Prohibition Commissioner Doran disclosed that 200,832,031 proof gallons were produced in the fiscal year ending June 30 and that was 31,682,051 more than the output of the preceding year.

During the year 5,892,247 gallons were withdrawn from warehouses after tax payments, an increase of 217,266 gallons as compared with the previous year. Withdrawals for the tax free purposes including denaturation, for export, for use by the government, hospitals, laboratories, colleges and other educational institutions, amounted to 185,650,906 gallons, an increase of 22,732,825 gallons.

During the year a total of 1,616,658 gallons of distilled spirits including brandy, were withdrawn from bonded warehouses, an increase of 2360 gallons, while there were 9,149,140 more gallons of cereal beverages produced than in the year previous. During the years 500 wineries, a decrease of 36, operated and produced 11,381,590 gallons of wine, an increase of 6,459,373 gallons. The quantity of wine removed on payment of tax for non-beverage and sacramental purposes totaled 3,094,200 gallons, while on last June 30 there were 23,138,754 gallons of wine in warehouses.

AGA KHAN WEDS MLLE. CARRON

Aix-Les-Baines, France, Dec. 7 (AP)—Mlle. Andree Josephine Carron, French business woman, and the Aga Khan, wealthy Indian sportsman, were married here today.

They were united by a civil ceremony with a Moslem rite following.

A few days ago Mlle. Carron answered newspaper comment that she looked like 21 with the statement she really is 31 years old. She ran a small candy shop in Paris and was much more interested in sports than the clothes she would wear at her wedding.

Despite efforts of Aga Khan, who is a famous owner of race horses, to keep such details secret, it became known she was to receive a million francs (about $40,000) before the ceremony took place. He recently gave her a $500,000 diamond ring.

Aside from the Pope, the prince, head of a Moslem sect, has the largest spiritual following in the world, his dominion covering not only a considerable part of British India but much of adjacent countries.

A ROCKEFELLER SINGS OF LOVE

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—The final composition of the "love song cycle," written by Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, with music by Mrs. Eleanor Everest Freer, was made public today. Its title is "Love."

Previous numbers in the song cycle were "How Can We Know?" and "I Write Not to Thee, Dearest," written in 1925 and 1927 respectively.

The words of Mrs. McCormick's poem follow:

Love is not a mendicant
Who goes from door to door,
And asks for food and shelter
Just to ask for more and more.

Love is not a tyrant
With all commanding tone
Who gives and gives and gives again,
Nor questions from his loan.

Love is not a watcher
Who's always on his guard
To catch the straying footsteps
And look for his reward.

Love is so evasive
To wishing child of man,
That only God's great compass
Can trace where it has been.

New Brooklyn Dry Dock Dedicated

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Additional facilities for speeding up commerce were opened here today with the dedication of the city's largest drydock—a concrete berth, 750 feet long, lapping the Brooklyn Navy Yard drydock by nearly 50 feet. It was built for the Todd Shipyards Corp. in Erie Basin, Brooklyn.

The new dock is designed to set a big steamer on dry bottom in two hours and to take in two moderate sized vessels simultaneously. The water depth over the top of the blocks on which a hull must rest is 25 feet.

Prince Weds 'Candy Girl'

Tiny Girl Scorns $1000 for Her Hero Prince

Only a comparative few days ago, "Prince" was just a dog.

It must be understood that Eileen Depson of Center st., Holbrook, the scornful miss whom "Prince" rescued from in front of a speeding train near the Holbrook depot, will not part with her collie. In fact, little Miss Depson doesn't even want a Christmas present this year from Santa Claus, the ownership of Prince being sufficient.

The offer to buy the hero dog, recently decorated with a medal for his feat, was made by J. W. Portland, Ore., and he offered a cool $1000.

Merger of Paper Companies Planned

Bangor, Me., Dec. 7 (AP)—Plans for a merger of the Eastern Manufacturing Company at Brewer and the Orono Pulp & Paper Co. at Orono, both manufacturers of pulp and paper, were announced today by Edward N. Graham and Franklin E. Bragg, respective presidents of the concerns.

Graham declared the proposed merger would be beneficial to the industrial life of Eastern Maine.

The Eastern Manufacturing Company, which also maintains a plant at Lincoln, has a capitalization of $3,036,100 and a surplus of $2,376,095. The Orono Pulp & Paper Co. is capitalized at $2,000,000 with a surplus of $1,000,000.

Maj. F. A. Sullivan in $25,000 Love Suit

Springfield, Dec. 7 (AP)—Maj. Frank A. Sullivan of this city has brought suit against George Alley of Edgartown for $25,000 for alleged alienation of the affections of Sullivan's wife, who is said to be acting as housekeeper for Alley.

Sullivan served in the army medical corps in the World War. Mrs. Sullivan filed a divorce suit in 1922 and gave her address as Tisbury, but the action has never come to trial.

State Needs Women, Gov. Allen Declares

Governor Allen, in an address today at a luncheon of the Boston Wellesley Club at the Hotel Statler, declared the State and nation need women who will aid and accept leadership in all the varied community and social activities.

He assured his hearers it is still the policy of the State to extend every means of encouragement to educational institutions that their growth and development may be stimulated and advanced.

ATTWILL DENIES HE CAUSED BIG STOCK CRASH

Utilities Department Head Explains Why Edison Decision Was Given

Harry C. Attwill, chairman of the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities, today denied he or his board was in any way responsible for the recent crash in stocks.

The action of the board in refusing to permit the Edison Electric Illuminating Co. of Boston to split its stock on a four-for-one basis caused a decline in the company's stock and was reported in some quarters to have precipitated the subsequent general crash of other stocks.

Mr. Attwill said:

"I do not know why I am held in any way responsible for the recent slump. My position as chairman of the Department of Public Utilities calls for protection of the people against increased rates on gas and electricity. While sure it is a very practical duty there is in it, as well, the psychological element.

EXPLAINS EFFECT

"For instance, if the Edison Company were allowed to reduce shares at this time to a par of $25, ostensibly for the reason that they would by that simple process get wider distribution of their shares, immediately the larger number of shares would increase the speculative value, but it would have no bearing whatever on the actual physical value of the company.

"Intensive speculation makes a higher market. At the time we gave our decision, the stock market was boiling. Edison was away up—far beyond its ability to return a fair investment earning on the present rates.

"To reduce the par value would mean four times as many shares would be on the market, and with a big speculative buying it would not take long for the new shares to settle into a market groove entirely out of proportion to the four-to-one ratio. While we are not market experts we must take judicial notice of certain phases of the exchanges and of the way in which stocks and bonds of the various utilities, under our supervision are behaving.

MARKET TOO HIGH.

"It is my personal opinion that the market was altogether too high. Public utility shares were being traded in by millions of people who didn't care about their real value. All they cared about was their speculative value.

"That isn't up to us to regulate. Our decision on Edison had to be just what it was. Had we known it was going to bring about the recent crash the decision would have been the same.

"Any market condition that can't stand up to the honest and unbiased decisions of state public utility commissions, Federal Reserve Bank officials, the Interstate Commerce Commission or the Supreme Court of the United States is not a sound condition."

BOY, 9, PREFERS OLD HOME IN GERMANY TO LIVING IN U. S.

GOING BACK TO HIS OLD FOLKS

Walter Fritz to Sail Alone on Tuesday on the Liner Cleveland

Choosing between his parents and sight of his native hearth, nine-year-old Walter Fritz, of 5 Maverick pl. East Dedham, today made momentous decision to sail for Germany next Tuesday on the Hamburg-American liner Cleveland.

The little lad will sail unaccompanied by relatives, but in charge of a matron aboard the big vessel.

Walter came here a year ago, but "couldn't seem to get used to America," according to the parents as they booked passage for him.

"He longed for his old playmates," they said, "and no matter how much we did here, he always spoke of his boyish chums and grandparents in "der Vaterland."

Walter will be met at Hamburg by his grandparents, where a touching reunion is expected.

The Cleveland will call here after a trip from New York, docking at Commonwealth Pier to take a list of passengers, many of whom intend to spend the holidays at their native homes.

In addition, a party of Irish tourists from Roxbury will make the trip to spend the holidays in Ireland.

Dr. Marion R. Hoyton of Windsor, Vt., is another booked for the sail, bound on her annual trip in quest of medical science information. Others booked include Miss A. C. Collier and Mrs. Charles A. Ring of 282 Commonwealth ave., Back Bay.

DRUGGAN READY TO PAY $25,000

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—Terry Druggan, racketeer and brewer, inquired today how he was to know that the government demanded income tax from the profits of his beer business.

As a compromise, however, Druggan offered Mrs. Myrtle Tanner Blackledge, collector of internal revenue, $25,000 as the proper settlement for the $200,000 which the government thinks is proper revenue from Druggan's business.

Druggan sets out that at the time he went into the beer business, in 1922, he had been advised the fourth hold return on such operations to be unnecessary.

The beer racket was described as a "hazardous and unprofitable business" by Druggan, who admitted his gross for two years might have exceeded $200,000, but insisted the net profit was only $100,000 or possibly $125,000.

Monument Planned to Composer Puccini

Viareggio, Italy, Dec. 7 (AP)—A monument is to be erected here to the memory of Giacomo Puccini, composer of "Madame Butterfly," "Tosca," "La Bohme" and many other operas. A committee will seek to induce the government to choose it for the national monument for which a prize of $8,000 has been offered.

Poland Apologizes to U. S. for Attack

Warsaw, Dec. 7 (AP)—The Foreign Office today sent a representative to the United States charge d'affaires to express regret at Thursday's stoning of the American consulate by a band of Communist youths. Punishment of the responsible persons was promised.

Representatives of the city of Warsaw visited the consulate and expressed similar regrets.

Move Pole, Then Firemen Arrive

Lawrence, Dec. 7—A group of workmen engaged in moving a power wire pole at Trenton and Buswell sts. received the surprise of their life yesterday when several pieces of fire apparatus roared up to the scene of operations and asked directions to the fire.

Edison Seeks 'Change' on Florida Estate

Fort Myers, Fla., Dec. 7 (AP)—Thomas A. Edison discarded his stiff black derby for a floppy, well-worn Panama hat today, and planned an extensive survey of his tropical estate, Seminole Lodge, preparatory to resuming rubber experiments.

Mr. Edison first came to Florida in 1883, and three years later brought Mrs. Edison here on their wedding trip. Although the Edisons have been annual visitors since that time, their arrival last night was the first time they have come south as early as December.

"Well, I haven't been feeling so well," the 82-year-old inventor told friends, and his wife explained that he was tired from the trip and "needed a change."

RESCUE 54 AT NEW YORK FIRE

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Firemen carried 54 persons to safety in a burning six-story tenement house on the Bowery, near Bleecker st., today, when flames swept up the stairways.

Four of the rescued, including a woman and two boys, were slightly injured.

ARMY WILL AID ROAD PLAN

Co-operation in the proposed $40,000 widening of the Winthrop thoroughfare, extending along army property at Fort Banks, was promised today by Maj.-Gen. Preston B. Brown to a delegation of Winthrop selectmen.

The delegation consisted of Chairman Henry J. Barry and Selectmen John P. Clancy and G. Wallace Tibbetts.

Gen. Brown promised to make a personal inspection of the project so far as it relates to Fort Banks property. In a bill filed with Congress by Congressman Underhill, permission is sought to shve 10 feet off the fort lands to widen the highway under consideration.

The road extends from Crest ave. to Magee's Corner, and the widening planned would complete a highway 50 feet wide from Point Shirley to Revere to the very heart of Winthrop.

"Biological" Wife Goes Back to Hubby

Washington, Dec. 7 (AP)—Mrs. Signe C. Bartsch who, in recent divorce proceedings, accused her husband, Paul Bartsch, a biologist of the National Museum, of having treated her as a "biological specimen," has gone back to him, her attorneys announced, and her petition for limited divorce has been dismissed.

Mrs. Bartsch charged her husband had treated her as a "biological specimen" in her eating, sleeping and home relations, once had dragged her about by her hair and had threatened to shoot their minor son.

Two Fall 1000 Feet to Death in Mine

Wharton, N. J., Dec. 7 (AP)—Two men were killed in a fall of 1000 feet at the Richards Iron Mine. They were George B. Tolley of Dover, civil engineer, and Harry E. Briosius of Darbey, Pa., construction foreman.

They were descending the main shaft when they lost control of the mine car, which plunged to the bottom.

Three Youths Held in Lynn Jewel Theft

The three New York youths, who were arrested in East Boston yesterday a few hours after breaking into Kay's jewelry store, Lynn, and stealing 13 gold watches, pleaded guilty in Lynn police court today to a charge of breaking and entering in the night time and larceny. They were held in $5000 bail each for the grand jury. The youths are John Marciano, 18; Henry Nemrod, 17, and Willia mJordan, 17.

MANY TO OFFER COMMUNION FOR CARDINAL

Usual Preparations for Feast of Immaculate Conception Include "Spiritual Gift"

In anticipation of the 70th birthday of Cardinal O'Connell, which comes tomorrow, scores of triduums and novenas in preparation for the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, will conclude with a "spiritual gift" to the cardinal.

It is a festival day of the church that has always been of much interest in this diocese as well as in all America, for it commemorates the Immaculate Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary, patroness of the church in this country.

Incidentally, this is the diamond year period commemmorating the promulgation of this important doctrine of the church in 1854.

Preparatory ceremonies will terminate tomorrow morning when all of those engaging in the novenas and triduums will receive Holy Communion.

Priests conducting these novenas and triduums, recognizing the fact that it is the well-known scriptural period of three score and ten in the life of Cardinal O'Connell, have spoken to their people, suggesting that, with the closing of their novenas and triduum they will offer their communion tomorrow for the Cardinal.

Inasmuch as probably at least half the Catholic population of the diocese will observe the feast day by receiving Holy Communion, it is quite likely that some 500,000 people tomorrow morning will offer communion in behalf of the head of the diocese and dean of the church hierarchy in America.

The cardinal will be at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross tomorrow morning to follow his usual program of pontificating at a solemn mass in the morning at 10 o'clock and as usual, a large congregation from all sections will be on hand.

Each year many hundreds come from various sections for this occasion and the fact that this year it falls on a Sunday will give added opportunity for many thousands to have this chance of seeing the cardinal on his worthy anniversary.

So far as known, the Cardinal will go directly from the Cathedral tomorrow morning to his residence on the seminary grounds, Brighton, where he will spend the greater part of the afternoon, possibly making one or two visits, as is his custom.

To Marry Broker

Bessie Love, who off the silver screen is Juanita Horton, will marry William B. Hawkes, Los Angeles broker, on Dec. 27. Neither has been married previously.

BESSIE LOVE TO WED BROKER

Los Angeles, Dec. 7 (AP)—Bessie Love, who off the silver screen is Juanita Horton, will marry William B. Hawkes, Los Angeles stock broker Dec. 27.

The date was announced after the couple appeared at the marriage license bureau yesterday and filed a notice of intention to wed.

Both the actress and broker gave their ages as 28.

Neither has been married previously. The marriage ceremony will be read in St. James' Episcopal Church.

BUSINESS BOOM ORGANIZATION IS STARTED

Leaders of Nation's Business Will Be Enlisted to Aid Movement

Washington, Dec. 7—An organization for a possibly permanent council of guidance for American industry was in prospect today following the recess of the national business survey conference begun by President Hoover.

Julius H. Barnes, chairman of that gathering, announced the intention to interview the nation's business leadership generally.

Secretary Lamont will have special division in the Department of Commerce co-ordinate the federal construction work with the activities to be undertaken by the states.

The tentative program shaped after close of the session appeared to call for the creation of a conference committee representing many business lines.

"The committees which the business conference asked the chairman to appoint will be considered this coming week," Chairman Barnes said. "It is likely there will be named one larger conference committee based on trade association representation, and a smaller working committee, the members of which will be selected for their individual attainments and their wide knowledge of business affairs. This requires a little thought and study.'

Certain things stand out concerning the conference itself, according to Barnes. "First that it presented an extraordinary and comprehensive cross section of the whole fabric of American business represented by leaders who could speak with authority.

Second, that in taking up any possible slack in wages and employment an elasticity of new construction and maintenance is the chief factor, maintenance also means new equipment and construction which means not only expansion but improvement of mechanical production and distribution.

Third that this implies ample capital expenditures for these purposes and this must be provided from industrial treasuries or must largely be borrowings for capital investment.

"Fourth, these borrowings depend upon the ability to obtain money at reasonable rates and in ready and adequate quantities."

News of Byrd's Trip Delights Wilkins

CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS
Commander of the Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition.

(Copyright, 1929, by Ice and Commerce Examiner, United Service, Inc. Copyright in Great Britain, France, Germany and all other countries. Reproduction prohibited in whole or in part.)

Deception Island, South Shetlands, Dec. 7 (Via S. S. Melville and KUP, San Francisco Examiner Radio Station)—We were delighted to hear of Byrd's success.

Our preliminary preparations at Deception Island are now almost complete. The time is drawing near when we expected good weather so we must soon seek a more southerly base.

The last few days we have been carefully checking everything and a test flight showed everything practically in order.

Arrangements have been made to accommodate one machine fitted with a new type of landing gear on the Scoresby. In a few days we will start loading supplies and equipment on the vessel.

Then, weather permitting, Cramer, Cheeseman, Porter and the writer will set sail with one machine, pontoons, skis, large Goodyear wheels, which have proved invaluable and the Austin seven automobile, which was also a great help.

We will probably go outside the Antarctic Archipelago and try to reach as far South as possible and locate a good ice field for a takeoff over the Ross Sea, but our actual plans will depend on the conditions discovered.

If we reach a position very far South, reducing the total distance to 2000 miles, we might attempt a non-stop flight, or possibly we might return with the Scoresby for the second plane before setting out.

Weather and ice conditions here so far make it impossible to prearrange a definite schedule. We have been so desperately busy we have had little time to contemplate our adventures. Now everything is about ready and everyone is anxious to set off for more.

PREACHERS TO OBSERVE BIBLE DAY

CARDINAL O'CONNELL

The Church Page editor and readers congratulate His Eminence upon reaching three score years and ten in a healthy, hearty condition, still vigorous in mind and body.

DR. DANIEL L. MARSH

The president of Boston University will speak tomorrow evening at St. John's Methodist Church in Dedham. He will tell of his trip last summer to Europe and through the Near East. The hour for this forum is 7 p. m.

BIBLE SUNDAY OBSERVED

The Village Congregational Church will have an appropriate service tomorrow morning when the minister, the Rev. George Hilbert Driver, will preach on "Light Irresistible." Next week a program of Christmas carols will begin in preparation for Christmas. On next Tuesday evening the annual business and social meeting will be held.

MISSIONARIES MEET

Miss Mabel Emerson spoke yesterday before the Massachusetts Congregational Conference and Missionary Society in Pilgrim Hall. Her topic was, "The Star of the East." A large group of women were present.

"CHRISTIAN SOLDIER"

Now and then a minister is found who objects to having his congregation sing the old time hymn, "Onward Christian Soldier." The Rev. Howard E. Pomeroy of the Jamaica Plain Congregational Church suggests that the splendid tune be preserved with new words not so military. One suggestion is the hymn by the Rev. Frederick Hosmer, "Forward Through the Ages."

SEARCH FOR GOD

The Vedanta Center in Boston, 82 Fenway, has become a gathering place for followers of Swami Paramananda, whose religion and philosophy are appealing to many who have drifted from current beliefs. The Swami might be called a seeker after God, in his own manner.

TREMONT METHODIST

In the evening tomorrow a special Bible observance will be held and the minister, the Rev. Charles E. Cassell, will speak upon the theme, "Life's Ever-Lighted Lamp." Mrs. Arthur Page Sharp will give the address in the morning in celebration of the founding of the Women's Federation of Woman's Missionary Societies.

FORD HALL

Bertrand Russell of England will appear at Ford Hall tomorrow evening and will talk on the subject, "Are Parents Good for Children?"

BISHOP SLATTERY

The bishop will preach in Grace Church, Salem, tomorrow morning. He will also hold a confirmation service. In many Episcopal churches tomorrow Bible Sunday will be observed.

PILGRIM CONGREGATIONAL

Tomorrow evening the Rev. Clarence Dunham will give an illustrated talk on the life of Christ, using copies of many famous paintings. On Thursday evening the Allbright Circle will give a church supper.

UNION MEETING

Governor Allen will be the principal speaker Monday morning at a union ministers' meeting to be held in the Church of the New Jerusalem on Bowdoin st. He will speak on "Public Welfare Program." Others to be heard from are Richard Cunxot, Judge Frederick P. Cabot of the juvenile court and others. This meeting is open to the public.

RACE RELATIONS SUNDAY

February 9 is the date selected as Race Relations Sunday. Clergymen and churches are asked to put this date down on their calendars with the understanding that on that day sermons will be preached and possible exchanges made with colored clergymen and with pastors of other races.

PASTOR AND TARIFF

Dr. Charles Jefferson of the Broadway Tabernacle, New York city, has recently spoken frankly of tariff making in America. He holds that a statesman in Canada or countries almost universally believe in high tariff with little or no regard for workmen and their wives living in other lands. Dr. Jefferson holds that when matters such as the tariff come up, Christian principles fly out at the window. He says that the Sermon on the Mount is not consulted when tariff measures are up for discussion.

UNION CHURCH

The Rev. Herbert A. Jump will take for his Sunday morning topic "The Art of Dismissing the Crowd." A special chorus will render a musical program in the evening. An invitation will be extended to all who are interested in good music.

MORGAN MEMORIAL

At the Church of All Nations on Shawmut ave, tomorrow at 10:30, the Rev. Arthur R. Hoverland will talk on "Building for Durability." The famous Wooten's 10-piece string orchestra, directed by Prof. W. H. Wooten, will furnish the music at the 4 o'clock service.

LINCOLN PARK BAPTIST

The entire service of worship at the morning hour will be in charge of the De Molays. The chapter will attend in a body. "The Seven Jewels of Life" is the title of the sermon to be preached by Past Master F. Carlton Black.

Women Preachers Increase

Recently at the 11th convention of women preachers held in Indianapolis, Ind., 50 women attended from nine states and from 11 denominations. The president of the organization is Rev. Mary Alice Lyons of Cleveland.

Bible Still 'Best Book'

Miss Marian Coates Brown of the Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Braintree, is one among many young people who believe the Bible is still the most valuable book, and should be read and understood by all who lay claim to adequate education. In hundreds and in thousands of churches tomorrow International Bible Sunday will be observed by clergymen and congregations.

IMMACULATE CONCEPTION

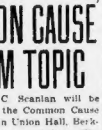
Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael J. Splaine, D. D. of St. Mary's Church, Brookline, will take for his subject "The Immaculate Conception" for his radio hour talk tomorrow afternoon, 2 to 4.

Seventy-five years ago Pope Pius IX delivered the Bull in which he said:

"We declare, pronounce and define that the doctrine which holds the Blessed Virgin Mary, at the first instant of her conception, by a singular privilege and grace of the Omnipotent God, in virtue of the merits of Jesus Christ, the Saviour of Mankind, was preserved immaculate from all stain of original sin has been revealed by God and therefore should firmly and constantly be believed by all the faithful."

WOMEN'S VOTE, COMMON CAUSE FORUM TOPIC

Mrs. Frank C. Scanlan will be the speaker at the Common Cause Forum, Franklin Union Hall, Berkeley st., tomorrow evening. She will discuss the value of women's voting for 10 years. She herself has been active in politics and has her own thoughts about such activities. There will be time for questions and for other expressions of belief.



Representative leaders in several women's organizations are expected to be present.

At 7 p. m. there will be a concert under the direction of Arthur Brett. Mr. Joseph F. Mulligan will preside.

Mrs. Scanlan is announced to analyze the experience of women as voters the past dozen years, the effect of voting upon women as mothers and citizens, as well as the legislative benefits and failures of women by the standard of the Guild over which she presides.

Many Churches Sign Pledge Against War

At the Massachusetts Federation of Churches headquarters there is a pledge blank for any church prepared to sign on the dotted line. This pledge is not one against liquor, but against war. The Rev. E. Talmadge Root at 4 Park st. has the blanks for distribution.

In part, the resolution reads:

"Realizing that the value of the Kellogg peace pact is dependent on the intelligence and determined support given it by the people of each nation, and

"Believing that Christians have special responsibility in securing and maintaining this support,

"We hereby accept for ourselves these pledges of our governments on our behalf and will do whatever lies in our power to bring to others an understanding of the meaning and significance of the pact.

Congregationalists Member Canvass

Tomorrow throughout the United States and every member canvass will be started by Congregational churches of which there are about 5497. An effort will be made to increase last year's subscription by $630,000. The total amount reported as raised last year was $525,884.281.

The latest reports give figures to show in various Congregational missionary schools there are 97,000 children and adults.

In June the steamer Adriatic will sail from New York city completely filled with Congregational ministers and their families and friends on their way to Bournemouth, England, where will be held the decennial International Council. The fact that the Christian Church has joined with the Congregationalists, will it is declared, strengthen the denomination greatly.

Inadequate Publicity for Catholics

In an article in the last issue of Commonweal, Mr. Michael Williams declares that Catholics do not get proper publicity and he suggests some remedies. Among other things he says:

"American Catholics lack an adequate publicity system, which would grave injury to themselves, to their church and society in general, furthermore, that they themselves are to blame for this condition, which they could quickly and effectively change for the better. Mr. Williams goes on to suggest various remedies. And in this article he deals exclusively with the field of the press.

Primitive Methodists Vote to Withdraw

The Primitive Methodists recently voted to withdraw from the Federal Council of Churches and gave as their reason that the denomination was too little interested in the council's program for social betterment to make it worth while to continue membership. This defection will mean very little as the Primitive Methodists number in all only about 11,000 members.

BOSTON BEANS, BROWN BREAD OFFICIAL

Governor Allen, President Daniel J. Marsh and many leading clergymen in Greater Boston and throughout the United States will partake tomorrow noon of a simple and patriotic meal of Boston baked beans and steamed brown bread. A committee, composed of Dr. Marsh, the Rev. George Lyman Paine and the Rev. Roger F. Etz, has officially announced that the above meal is a proper repast for Golden Rule Sunday when every interested person who wants to do something for the neglected children of the world will compute how much he has saved by his frugality and send that amount to the Golden Rule Foundation, 1 Madison ave., New York City.

This committee guarantees that the costs of each dollar will go for the purpose for which its was contributed.

Bertrand Russell at Symphony Hall

A notable internationalist will speak at the Community Church tomorrow morning. Mr. Russell will take for his topic "The Faith of an Unbeliever." Mr. Russell is known not only for his eloquence, but for his many books and sayings which have come from his prolific pen. "Why Men Fight," "Mysticism and Logic," "Proposed Roads to Freedom" are among his best known. The service begins at 10:45 with a musical program.

Golden Rule Sunday

THE GOLDEN RULE is the rule of the sun
And where they are the cold things melt,
Two clouds there are that blacken the earth,
Superstition the one and Ignorance two.
In many a land the world around,
Tradition black as an inky sky,
With a taboo fence like prison bars
Shut childhood in and glory out,
Keep a murky world from the open day
And a new born life from its rightful play.
From thoughts which kindle
And health which grows,

Give a thought this day for a children's fund and the Golden Rule.

Subs for Flying Mate

William M. Denny Mrs. Joan Fay Shankle

Mrs. Joan Fay Shankle, wife of Lieut. C. S. "Dutch" Shankle, accepts, in behalf of her husband, the prize loving cup awarded him for his airplane stunting exhibition at the Falmouth air meet some months ago. William M. Denny, general manager of the Falmouth Airport, is making the presentation. Mrs. [illegible] was engaged for her husband, who was out of town on business when Denny arrived with the prize.

Tunney, in the Ring Again, Embarrassed

Greenwich, Conn., Dec. 7 (AP)—Mr. Tunney has been terribly embarrassed as he practiced at the gymnasium here this morning in preparation for his coming battle with Jack Sharkey in Yankee Stadium, New York, on the night of June 12.

Tunney, in the ring again, is getting into training in the midst of a carnival atmosphere. He made a speech at noon to a luncheon group in Greenwich and then went to the gymnasium for a public training session. Hundreds of persons, including women and children, thronged the gymnasium to see the champion at work.

Tunney was not prepared for the reception he received. He was embarrassed by the applause that greeted his every move. He was unable to work out in the manner he had planned.

Probe Typhoid Fever Cases in Lowell

Lowell, Dec. 7 (AP)—Officers of the state department of health today were in this city conferring with city officials in an effort to determine the source of a recent outbreak of typhoid fever here.

Five cases were reported yesterday, four of the sufferers being members of one family. The number of cases is larger than that reported in any year in the past ten years. Particular attention is being devoted by investigators to the local water supply, which has suffered from the recent drought.

Report White Smoke From Mount Magiek

Edward, Alaska, Dec. 7 (AP)—Passengers arriving here on the steamer Starr from Westward, reported great clouds of white smoke boiling from Mount Magiek, one of Katmai group in the Valley of 10,000 Smokes.

They said the smoke was plainly visible 20 miles at sea. The mountain is as uninhabited region.

MRS. SHANKLE ACCEPTS CUP FOR 'DUTCH'

By GEORGE HAMBLIN

The aviation committee of the Falmouth airport were confronted with the possibility of having a beautiful loving cup on their hands, an the gentleman to whom they were to present it gone away for the day.

William M. "Bill" Denny, general manager of the Falmouth Airport for the Ludington-Philadelphia Flying Service, solved the problem with one turn of his hand, so to speak, when he met Mrs. Joan Fay Shankle, wife of Lieut. Clarence S. "Dutch" Shankle.

Lieut. Shankle stunted his airplane at the Falmouth air meet held over Labor Day for several hours at a time, and won the stunt flying contest hands down. Since that time, Denny has been trying to find a suitable way to reward him, and after a trip to Ludington's office in Philly decided that the best looking loving cup he could find would fill the bill.

Loading the members of the committee into his car, Bill started out for Boston happy in the thought that in a few hours Lieut. Shankle would be the recipient of this silver cup. Denny committee and car arrived at the Boston airport in due time and were rather nonplussed when they found that Shankle was not on the premises and no chance of his being around for the remainder of the day.

Then Bill and Mrs. Shankle's day was saved. Denny [illegible] regrets on the absence of Lieut. Shankle, but stated that he was sure that Mrs. Shankle would extend to her husband the sincere thanks of the committee for the interest shown in the air meet, and the success of good work he did to further aviation on the Cape.

Mrs. Shankle received [illegible] and said she was sure "Dutch" would feel more than repaid for his efforts.

With Denny, the aviation committee of Falmouth is composed of A. C. Whitney, E. H. Wilcox, engineer of the Falmouth Airport, W. G. Caldwell, [illegible] Frank "Bob" Townsend, [illegible] Fish, chairman, and Joseph [illegible], secretary.

After the presentation the committee inspected the Boston Airport in order to get a few ideas that is needed to bring Falmouth airport up with the best in the country. Judging by the number of persons of them took the trip down on the Cape will be on hand each of the above-named [illegible] demonstrations. With such a job, this sales manager stuff, which no one has a fast bus like the C[illegible] to barge around in.

Having read in this column F[illegible] day that he was expected to [illegible] our airport a visit, Lieut. [illegible] turee, Isaac "Ike" Dewson, [illegible] dent and treasurer of Sound [illegible] ways, the Ludington Line pilot, "Hank" Olden, and his [illegible] manager, Dave Sher.

The last two were up [illegible] lecting the Travel Air cabin plane owned by the company which had had its 300 horsepower Wright Whirlwind motor [illegible] up by the East Coast Aircraft Corp.

"Ike" was shown around, and everything explained expressed wonderment at the changes in the airport since the last time he had been in, and stated that the operating companies here are to be congratulated on their foresight in constructing such fields, and organizing their companies in such an up-to-date manner.

Then the party climbed [illegible] the Travel Air and started back [illegible] New Bedford.

TARBELL FIRM ON PORTRAIT

"If the Massachusetts Art Commission wants my portrait of Sen. Walsh it must send for it or come and get it."

This is the final word of Edmund C. Tarbell, world famous artist, regarding the deadlock over the hanging of his picture of Sen. David I. Walsh in the State House gallerie.

Tarbell, from his studio in the Fenway today reiterated his position with reference to the action of the art commision over one of the hands of the subject.

"The commission did not say which hand was wrong," Tarbell explained.

"I looked at both and can see nothing wrong with either hand. Moreover, Sen. Walsh and his sister have approved the portrait and it will remain unchanged."

The artist emphasized his indicated that the picture will be accepted and hung if the artist will again submit it. The painting of former Gov. David I. Walsh is the only one missing in the gallery of Massachusetts executives, except of course, that of the present Governor, which will be hung in time. But the commission wants Tarbell to submit it and Tarbell will not, having done so once.

STAGE AND SCREEN

WHAT CHEER IN DRAMA'S YULETIDE!

By NICHOLAS YOUNG

THE holiday blight has fallen upon the theater. This, it may be explained, is an annual annoyance to those who pin their faith and their dollars on the fickle lady called Thespis, and who still believes in Santa Claus. About this time of the year dull doings and unhappy omens stalk the temples of art that cluster around Boylston and Tremont streets. Its an old story, but no one is ever exactly prepared for its descent. For the harassed agents of a better and brighter drama there is no balm.

BUT this goddess of evil, which mocks the playhouse in December and fondles them in January, is not, it appears, particularly orthodox in her ministrations. She moves upon a fluctuating itinerary. As the years roll around and the cinema waxes stronger, her flights take slight notice of the accepted schedules: her visitations, in fact, are thrust upon us quite suddenly and without warning. The present season, which is none too virile in most respects, presents an excellent example. It is facing the usual holiday decline about two weeks ahead of what the experts predicted.

Nicholas Young

LOCALLY, the drama has flopped into what you might call an artistic contest which may be strictly regarded from the sidelines as something generally concerning the survival of the fittest. In the meantime, the drama staggers along the beaten paths with none too optimistic retainers fumbling the first aid kits and piteously calling for salt and oxygen.

OF course all sides are taking a good deal of punishment. The Shuberts, already with three of their five downtown houses closed, and the Majestic with "Wood Woof" now struggling along on its final week, appear to be just next door to an empty Christmas. Only "Journey's End" at the Wilbur remains as a forlorn hope for the ambitious brothers who have turned art into industry and Wall Street. But even "Journey's End" has been scorched by the seasonal blight, for it will remain but two weeks longer as the banner attraction of the none to affluent Shubert season.

THE prospects are quite the same about the temples flying the pennants of Erlanger and Zeigfeld. Although the Tremont has surrendered and will remain in darkness until December 30, the Hollis and Colonial are still sponsoring guests with limitless cravings for public attention. As "Whoopee" is now expected to depart in another week, it is apparent that the ancient enemy of the Shuberts, the Theater Guild, now safely tenanted at the Hollis, will prove the sole survivor of the most devastating Yuletide season this old New England town has ever known. All of which yields once more a suggesta the grand virtue of a subscription list.

Stage Beauties May Be Blithely Enticing or, as You May See Here, Demurely So

LOUISE GREY

MISS GREY has the leading role in "Woof Woof" at the Majestic. She has the looks plus ability. When she smiles, watch your step.

MARTHA ATTWOOD

MME. ATTWOOD is one of the prima donnas of the Boston Opera Company now at the Boston Opera House. She's mistress of the sweet tones.

ROSALIND RUSSELL

THAT COPLEY SHOW, "Murder on the Second Floor," thrills, and so does the lure of Miss Russell, one of the Clive players.

FRANCES UPTON

SYMPHONY IS BRILLIANT IN 'BOLERO'

By MOSES SMITH

THE Symphony program of this week includes an intoxicant that is still strictly legal—a new piece by Maurice Ravel called "Bolero." As played yesterday for the first time in Boston it caused a sedate Friday afternoon audience to stamp the floor and applaud steadily for several minutes. Such a demonstration in Boston is equivalent to a riot in New York.

Ravel's music is an excellent illustration of the power of monotonous repetition, when ingeniously employed. Here the French master uses an old dance form, sets forth a simple tune and repeats it steadily, with drum beats setting the rhythmic pattern, over and over again for fully 15 minutes. There is no change in harmony; but as the piece develops, instrumental color is varied, the orchestration becomes constantly richer, more daring, and there is a continuous, maddening crescendo until, shortly before the end, there is just one modulation of harmony. Then a ferocious presto—and the music is done.

The effect is prodigious. Perhaps, as has been suggested, this is not great music, in the sense that one will enjoy it repeatedly after many listenings. But as a tour de force it is unequalled in modern musical literature—which is saying a great deal. Only a Ravel could have conceived it, and certainly only a Ravel could have executed his conception with such audacious brilliance.

Besides this music, Fairchild's "Chants Negres," played for the first time anywhere, paled. The work of an American composer, now living in Paris, this is a simple recitation of several songs from negro sources, set down without much embellishment and, on the whole, rather charmingly.

Bach's Third Brandenburg Concerto and Schumann's Second Symphony completed the program.

The Temptress

TANGARA

MLLE. TANGARA has a stellar role in "The Tempters" at the Gayety next week.

'TEMPTERS' IS GAYETY BILL

A SHOW brand new to the Mutual burlesque circuit will arrive Monday when "Tempters" opens at the Gayety, with an all-star cast composed of musical comedy and vaudeville headliners. Ruby Foreman is the prima donna. She was at one time known as "Tangara." The show will feature the clowning of Art Mayer and Tommy Miller, who will be aided by Charles Schultz, straight man. Midge Brandon, who served an apprenticeship in stock, will also appear with her own line of patter. Harry Howe and Jimmy Allatin are others of the cast.

The scenery is all new and all different. It has originality. Holub's Gayety jazz orchestra will offer some new features.

ROSSINI'S 'BARBER OF SEVILLE' APPLAUDED AT OPERA HOUSE

ROSSINI'S "Barber of Seville," opera of witty and sprightly tunes, with music matching a libretto that is humorous with a satirical edge, was presented at the Opera House by the Boston Grand Opera Company last night. The audience was not large but it was as well-pleased and as enthusiastic as any of the week.

For the most part the Company did not make the mistake of tuning this marvelous high comedy into farce. There is no need of understressing libretto and music: they speak for themselves. Mr. Amato was the bright star of the performance in this respect. Managing his voice with consummate artistry, he presented a delightful characterization of Figaro, the ubiquitous jack-of-all-trades.

Beatrice Belkin

His influence was apparent on the whole production, for things generally went better when he was on stage.

His rendering of the "Largo al factotum" stopped the show, but Mr. Amato steadfastly refused to repeat it, for which he is to be thanked. Beatrice Belkin, whom most of the audience had heard via the radio, made her first appearance here in opera as Rosina. Without offering more than a perfunctory study of the sprightly Rosina, she sang in lovely coloratura voice, with remarkably pure intonation and unusual freedom in the florid turns.

Davide Dorlini was the Count Almaviva. It is difficult to find tenors capable of singing this role with the required grace and style. And though Mr. Dorlini's has a good voice, he was unable to do justice to the music. Expressive singing was out of the question for one who was struggling with technical difficulties. Alfredo Valenti, on the other hand, did very well in the part of Don Basilio, the villainous music-teacher.

Giuseppe La Puma played Don Bartolo in the usual way, not concerned with subtleties. May Barron was the Bertha. The ensemble was a measurable improvement over that of the previous productions. Giuseppe Bamboschek conducted tastefully and energetically.

LATEST TOGS IN PICTURE

THE latest French fashions are shown in "The Kiss," at Loew's Orpheum next week. The plot concerns a French society family, affording many opportunities for scenes in which society women gather to display the most recent and most daring fashion creations.

Miss Garbo wears a variety of costumes in the new drama, ranging from sports clothes to sheer lounging robes and pajamas. Adrian, well-known Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer designer, has incorporated a number of new ideas in Miss Garbo's gowns, creating some effective novelties in sleeve designs and dress accessories.

Russian Choir

In Symphony Hall, tomorrow evening at 8:30, the Russian Symphonic Choir will give a varied program, including sacred, classical and folk songs. This colorful organization is noteworthy because of the "orchestral" effects achieved.

Very Kissable

GRETA GARBO

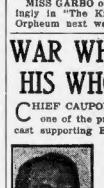
WAR WHOOP IS HIS WHOOPEE

CHIEF CAUPOLICAN, who is one of the principals in the cast supporting Eddie Cantor in "Whoopee" at the Colonial, is a real live Indian. He was born in Temuco, Chile, and as a boy developed along vocal instead of belligerent lines. His voice won the attention of his neighbors who predicted early that he would make a career for himself. However, he forsook music temporarily for adventure and took to the sea, remaining in maritime service for a short while. He then applied himself to professional work, making his first appearance with the Tivoli Opera House in San Francisco in 1903. He broke into the press in 1922 as an opera singer, in the role of "Malina" in the opera, "The Polish Jew," at the Metropolitan Grand Opera House.



Chief Caupolican

Chief Caupolican has a fluent command of French, Italian and Spanish, and is now, while performing in "Whoopee," preparing a new repertoire of grand opera.

FILM ROLE FOR ITS CREATOR ON STAGE

"THE Thirteenth Chair" provided two great disappointments for Margaret Wycherly—and then made them up, when she played the role she created before the footlights in the talking screen version, her first talking picture. In fact, she'd forgotten the two disappointments, and never dreamed of playing "Rosalie La Grange" again. When Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer took her from the Theater Guild in New York and hurried her across the continent to re-enact on the screen her most famous role.

"It was all because of the war," relates Miss Wycherly whose talking picture depiction of "Madame La Grange" is to be seen next week at Loew's State. "We had opened the play in New York, and it proved a hit, in 1917, and my contract provided that I was to play the role in London. How I looked forward to it! And then America was plunged into the war.

"They told me it would be folly to go to London to play it then—that London was in upheaval, sea travel dangerous—and—well, theytalked me out of it. My only consolation was that Mrs. Patrick Campbell played the role—for I knew at least that it was in good hands. And in 1918 Mrs. Campbell scored a huge success.

"But I still had hoped to play it in Paris. The French actress-producer who bought the French rights called on me, and asked if I spoke French. I did, but with an accent, but, as I wanted to play an Irishwoman, I thought that the accent would in this case be all right. What a wonderful thing it would have been to have done it—I, an American, starring in Paris in a French play. But again, the war intervened. They thought it over—and decided it was too risky in view of the war, and so Reiane played it in Paris.

"Incidentally, Rejane followed our New York characterization and makeup, but adapted the little cap I wore into a sort of Breton idea, and played it as a French peasant woman."

KLONDIKE'S FIRST FILM REVIVED

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Universal Service Motion Picture Editor

Copyright, 1929, by Universal Service, Inc.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 7—"The Spoilers," Rex Beach's colorful story of the Klondike, is to be filmed by Edwin Carewe as his first Pathe production. As one of the first feature-length pictures produced by Selig some 12 years ago, "The Spoilers" marked a new era in the movies. It was the first step toward better films and the celluloid fight which William Farnum and Tom Santschi waged was spoken of for years as a screen event.

Even today it is good drama—the story—so full of action and virile romance of the gold rush period. Furthermore, it marks Edwin Carewe's initial offering. The first of the series of features to be produced by Mr. Carewe and Joseph Kennedy.

There is a rumor that William Sistrom, who was formerly general manager at the Pathe Studios, has resigned. There is also a rumor at the Culver City Studios that there are others packing up and moving out.

HOOT MON! Harry Lauder has succumber to Holly wood's lure and it now looks as if the famous Scotch actor will return here in June. One of my sleuths whispered in my left ear that Sir Harry comes hither to make a picture for Paramount. As yet the contract is not signed so we have to do a little sh-sh on it. The Lauder contract, I might add, is being arranged through the efforts of one, William Perlberg. It was Mr. Perlberg who got the Marx Brothers to sign on the dotted line.

OVER at the Warner Brothers studios they regard Winnie Lightner as the white hope of wisecracking and comedy. She is funny without being too tough or too vulgar. Of course, the lady has her jokes on the screen, that is what makes her such an asset. Jack Warner has been looking for a play for her for a long time and has finally found "The Chorus Lady," which was produced on the stage many years ago with Rose Stahl in the leading role.

Must Be Case of Sour Grapes

FRANK FAY AND WINNIE LIGHTNER

MISS LIGHTNER looks as if she had just told Mr. Fay to go whistling. The scene is from "Show of Shows" at the Washington St. Olympia and Uptown. Mr. Fay is trying to whistle.

Still in the Ring

Eddie Cantor in "Whoopee" at the Colonial, (Third week.) Mr. Cantor journeys Westward and makes merry with lovely Indian maidens.

DAVID DURAND AND BELLE BAKER
MISS BAKER makes her film bow in "Song of Love" at the Keith-Albee, and Master David is in the cast supporting the great stage star.

NANCY CARROLL
MISS CARROLL trips it on the light fantastic in "Sweetie" at the Scollay Square. A college loves her.

JANET GAYNOR AND MARJORIE WHITE
IT'S MISS WHITE who is getting a line on Miss Gaynor. Each is pinning faith in the other, too. They're hanging out the clothes in "Sunnyside Up" at the New B. F. Keith's. Both are sunnily pretty.

"PEANUTS" BYRON
"FORWARD PASS" at the Fenway is the picture in which this lass appears. She is cast under her nickname.

WALTER PIDGEON AND LEATRICE JOY

MORE COLOR THAN IN THE RAINBOW

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

ALL the tints that technicolor has thus far fallen heir to in this waning year's motion picture progress are to be seen in "Show of Shows," the last word of Warner Bros. in film lavishness, now being screened at the Washington Street Olympia and Uptown. And the stars therein seem truly to be more numerous than in most heavenly constellations.

THERE'S just a little better than two hours of this pre-Yuletide revue. Only in moviedom could they pack so many sets, so many persons, so much life and color, in an entertainment lasting that time. Long before it is finished, one begins to think the Who's Who of Hollywood is being reeled off; there seem to be just that many personalities. It's a tedious task trying to remember all their names. They come fast, and often. As a sidelight, it may be stated as interesting, the chance to get the reaction of the audiences to the favorites. You get it by applause, or the audible um's and ah's We noted with satisfaction that the throng in the midst of which we sat, seemed to accord to winsome Winnie Lightner the palm; we know we did. We regretted only that her two numbers were not given the benefit of full color. For this comedienne of song technicolors more superbly than any person we have yet seen, and moreover, is to be yet accounted the outstanding film comedy acquisition of the current year.

FRANK FAY is the master of ceremonies, and gets a lot of laughs in his task. He also sings well. Among the big things of this mammoth extravaganza are the military formations in the introductory reel; the 200 dancers in the Larry Ceballos "Black and White" piece, and the pirate craft feature. Music is there in abundance, with plenty of songs, and there are a couple of oldtimers, such as the "Bicycle Built for Two," and the Floradora number.

WHO'S in it? There's John Barrymore, who does a bit of Mr. Shakespeare; there is Richard Barthelmess, who makes his bow with a speech; there is Beatrice Lillie, Irene Bordoni, the Costello sisters, and a number of other pairs of sisters known to the fans; Grant Withers, Ben Turpin, Lupino Lane, Jack Mulhall, Patsy Ruth Miller, Louise Fazenda, Myrna Loy, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Marion Nixon, Chester Morris, and so on. We are told in advance there are 77 stars, and we can believe it; and that there are 1000 beauties in the ensembles, and we may believe that, too.

In fact, seeing seems to be believing; anyway, why worry? There's plenty to enjoy.

BUSTER SANBORN

'PUSS PUSS' AT THE HOWARD

AT the Howard Athenaeum, beginning Monday, will be seen the "Puss Puss" company. Buster Sanborn, a dancer of exceptional ability, and Charles (Tramp) Nally, are stars, and other favorites will include Marie Bartell, Pearl Adams, Marie Ray, Billy Baud and others of prominence. "In the Land of Mirrors" is one of the effective scenes.

In the continuous part of the bill, the G. E. Lothrop management will offer a sterling program, combining vaudeville and pictures. It includes the Hungarian Troupe, Gallernini and Sister, musicians, and Gold and Kane, comedy duo. The pictures offer "The Pagan," "Sioux Blood," and other features.

OPERA TENOR TO BE HEARD AT THE MET

GUY HARRISON, whose brilliant performance won for him the coveted position of conductor of the Rochester Symphony Orchestra, will be the guest conductor for the third concert of the People's Symphony Orchestra, at the Metropolitan tomorrow. Guy Harrison is well known to radio listeners. Nino Martini, famous Italian operatic tenor, will be heard as the guest soloist. As usual, the concert will be given from 2 to 3 o'clock, after which will follow the regular generous program. Theater doors are to be opened at 1:30 p. m. The program follows:

Nino Martini

1 Die Meistersinger....Wagner
2 Andante Cantabile (Fifth Symphony) .....Tschaikowsky
3 (a) Che Gelida Manina (La Boheme) .....Puccini
(b) La Donna e Mobile (Rigoletto) .....Verdi

LAUDS LASS AS IDEAL STAR 'ON SETS'

IF Janet Gaynor, who with Charles Farrell appears in "Sunnyside Up," at the New B. F. Keith's, were a pupil and her directors were her teachers, she would be known as "a teacher's pet." As matters are, Janet is known at Fox Movietone City as the directors get. The strange part of this distinction is that none of the other players are jealous of Janet's standing. They take it for granted that a person so lacking in snobbery for all her fame, deserves partial treatment from directors Frank Borzage, famous director, and others.

Charles Farrell

Janet Gaynor is my favorite actress, not because I discovered her, but because she places herself in her director's hands and makes him feel that whatever he thinks best for her to do. When an actress places such unbelievable faith, she naturally brings out the best that is in the director.

"Janet places the burden of directing upon the director's shoulders, where it belongs. She never skimps in her duties. Her sweetness is not something donned and left behind in the dressing room bungalow when she leaves the lot. She is herself one of the dearest persons I have ever known."

David Butler, who directed "Sunnyside Up" said:

"Never in my career as a director have I met an actress so sincere in her work. I remember when we were making the picture, how she watched the positions of the cameras, fixing them in her mind. Then she could play to the cameras, aiding me in directing her. Few players are so painstaking in details as Janet.

"I have never known her to say 'I will do it this way' or 'I've been an actress long enough to know what it's all about, let me have it my way.' Always it is 'How's this, David?'"

He Eats Telepathy Toasted

ALFRED LUNT

"DR. LENT IS a real asset into the unseen in "Metem" at the Hollis. Nothing escapes his television, and he does on a telepathic dial. The sketch is by Artist Charles Schmidt.

ROASTING FOR HANK O'HAIR IS NICKNAME NOT IN CAST

MARION BYRON, stage dancer and singer, was too fresh when she went to Hollywood to strut her stuff in the films. At any rate that's what a dancing director thought, it developed one day on the set where she was supporting Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., and Loretta Young in the First National film, "The Forward Pass," now at the Beacon.

"I got sassy with the chorus boss. He says 'You're so fresh you're like a peanut, no good until you're roasted.'"

IT'S SWEET IF HEART GOES PIT-A-PAT

LESSONS on how to be a "sweetie" were given recently to an eager group of school girl extras by Nancy Carroll, Paramount star. As the "sweetie" or "sweetie" now at the Scollay Mae Carroll portrays a cheap girl who suddenly finds that she has inherited a boys' school.

"Sweetie comes from the word sweetheart," explained Miss Carroll. "To be a 'sweetie,' a girl must remember first of all to be as feminine as she can. It would not be a bad idea for a 'sweetie' to faint and swoon now and then as the 'sweetie' of yesterday did just to remind men how frail and feminine they were.

"A girl makes a great mistake in trying to merely be a man's pal. Of course, she should be a pal while she is a 'sweetie,' but to strive to be a pal only, is disastrous. Men marry their 'sweeties' but never their pals unless they find that she really is a 'sweetie' after all. When a man pats a girl on the shoulder as though he were saying "good old girl, she is sunk.

"To try to be men's intellectual partners is the bunk. Men and women never have and never will feel or think alike. They look at matters from entirely different angles.

"Every girl can be a 'sweetie,' whether she is a frivolous little flapper or a more serious person because for each type of man there is a different type of 'sweetie.'"

FINE POINTS OF MODERN HOMES

By BETTY BONNELL

With so many new types of radiators coming out on the market, it is no easy matter selecting the most practical type for your home.

However, it will simplify matters if I remind you radiators are divided into two general groups.

Betty Bonnell

The metal exposed type of cast-iron radiator and the newer concealed type with the so-called extended surface.

The latter are generally made of brass or aluminum alloys and are fortunately so compact in arrangement that they can be placed inconspicuously in partitions or attached or fitted into the wall at the baseboard. Since economy of space today is of great importance, engineers were put to work to discover the best possible method of securing maximum heating results in minimum space.

In this new type of radiator they finally succeeded in their aims, by providing a coil with metal fins that are welded to the main tube and thus allow heat to travel not only directly through the metal to the outside surface of the coil, but also along these fins. Thus, the larger surface is provided from which air currents can absorb heat.

Of course, it is most practical to have heat ejected into the room as close to the floor as possible, so that you will find it best to have these radiator outlets placed no more than four or possibly five feet from the floor. In many homes the ideal spot seems to be directly below the window.

I really think that the more you look into the concealed radiator idea the more you will begin to recognize its benefits. We do know the usual exposed radiators are not only ugly, but clumsy in the way, and more than once most of us have inadvertently touched the hot surface, with no particular delight.

All these disadvantages are completely removed with the concealed radiator, and yet your home can always be adequately heated.

HERE we have a simple English type cottage, A-94, that is charming. The architects show what can be done with simple materials, good taste and experienced designing.

The sturdy columns that support the roof, the plain stucco walls and brick chimney all express refinement and sincerity. There is no pretension or claim for display in this house, all is in the very best of taste.

The house measures 23 feet across the front, and allowing five feet clear space on one side and 10 feet clear on the other side of the house for a driveway, a lot with a frontage of 38 feet is required.

The foundation is of concrete. Upper walls are frame construction with stucco finish. Roof is of wood shingles.

A cellar extends under the entire house and provides the laundry, space for heater, coal bin and such.

A generous attic also is provided.

The living room has a large open fireplace.

Three bedrooms, a bath and numerous closets complete the second floor.

Cost about $8500.

COMPLETE working plans and specifications of the house illustrated above may be obtained for a nominal cost from the National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc. Any technical questions regarding this house will be answered without cost or obligation. Address the National Modern Homes Bureau, Inc., Real Estate Dept., Boston Evening American, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. Refer to House A-94.

More Comforts for Apartments Are Seen

Ultra modern conveniences in apartment houses of the future are predicted by F. Wallace Stoever, Washington, D. C., expert on property management, who declares that tenants of the next few years will regard indirect heating and cooling and air purification as necessary to their comfort.

"Compare the modern building of today with those built only a few years ago," Mr. Stoever said. "High speed elevators, refrigerating and radio service are improvements looked for in all modern buildings. Today service in apartment houses is equal to and in many cases better than that given a few years ago in the best hotels.

"The heating equipment of our large buildings is an important factor in determining desirability. Some buildings use fuel oil and others burn low priced grades of coal by the use of automatic stokers. The knocking and pounding of steam radiators have been eliminated and uniform temperatures are now maintained by the use of thermostatic regulators."

WOMAN IS HEROINE IN $25,000 EAST DEDHAM FIRE

Few Big Crimes in State This Year, Say Prosecutors

Air Romance, Better Than "Chickie"

What Has Happened

MARY PATRICIA DAWN, beautiful, young brunette, meets the lad of her dreams in the person of Guy Elliott, aviator. Guy is developing a perfect airplane in the plant of old William Bryce. Happy days follow as Pat and Guy in love. Then comes Barbara Bryce, young widow of Bryce's son, with her seductive lure.

Pat's father dies and Mrs. Dawn gives her life savings to Bryce to invest, but Guy gets them back. Bryce stops financing the plane factory. Suddenly three persons vanish, Guy, Pat and Mrs. Bryce's little boy. A note is received demanding $30,000 ransom for the boy. The place where the money is left is watched by the police, but is taken mysteriously, presumably by the kidnapers.

CHAPTER 30

THE man in the brush lay quiet and stared into these glowing eyes. He was so startled he couldn't say what manner of animal looked upon him.

The animal pushed noiselessly a step nearer. With a quiver that ran hotly down his nerves the detective made out the brown, pointed nose and long, soft ears of a Gordon setter.

He waited. The dog also waited.

But the man's heart thumped excitedly. How did the dog arrive in the flume? Not from this outlet. This outlet had been guarded every moment since 11 o'clock Friday night, since one hour before the ransom had been placed.

Then how did he get in? Was there some other outlet and the dog had entered in pursuit, perhaps of a cat or a rabbit?

But they had followed the flume five miles along the hillside to the cliff where it began. They found no opening along this five miles.

Was he stumbling upon the solution of the mystery? Was the dog the phantom who had stolen the ransom box? What had he done with it? Was it yet within the flume?

Cautiously he moved nearer, very softly he whistled. Like a flash the animal was gone. Backed and disappearing in the long narrow tunnel.

Tim Chase burned. His blood swept up in a flame. He went to the mouth of the flume and whistled. He had a dog of his own and tried every soft cajolement to lure the unknown animal back. The brown setter didn't respond.

An hour later a dozen men were examining every board along that flume. They guarded the entrance as well as the outlet. The dog would return. The dog might hold the answer.

And at 4 o'clock that Sunday came the kidnaper's promised message.

"You didn't obey orders. You were told not to notify the police. But police guarded that flume. They surrounded it in a tight cordon. It availed nothing. The ransom was taken. But you shall not see your grandson again. He died at 11 o'clock this morning.

"You are his murderer. You love your money better than the child's life. You placed the money there but meant to trap me and get it back. You couldn't. Now the thought of losing $20,000. Now bear the thought that you have lost the child.

"He died without pain and without knowing it. I didn't want to hurt him. Such a nice little chap. We got to be good friends. I told him stories at night. I thought for a long while of keeping him. It was too difficult. When he slept this morning I went in and chloroformed him.

"In two weeks from today—mark this well and remember it—you will receive a message as to where he is buried. You can hold his dead body in your arms if that will comfort you."

The message, as were all the others, were sent to William Bryce. He tried to keep it from the mother.

"Another crank note—don't listen!"

But she had reached out in a white madness and grabbed the sheet, had read it and pitched, without one word, without one outcry, into her father's arms.

The three ransom notes were all delivered in the same manner. A rigid check-up finally revealed this:

The first note was brought by a small boy to a telegraph office in Haight st. The boy handed a sealed envelope to the operator. This envelope addressed to the "Western Union" contained a two-dollar bill. A second sealed envelope and orders to deliver the enclosed message at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon into the hands of William Bryce.

The boy who brought the message was traced. He was a child who lived in the neighborhood. He said that a man had gotten from an automobile, given him a dollar and told him to run quickly to the telegraph office and deliver the message. Someone was dying. This was all the child could report. He could furnish no description of the man other than that he was tall and thin—"kind of hungry looking."

The second and third ransom

Proves Heroine at Fire

Photo shows Mrs. Margaret Landrie and her daughter Margaret, 11. Mrs. Landrie was the real heroine of the general alarm fire which swept the Pappas and Hirsch blocks in East Dedham today. Awakened by the flames she aroused her daughter and four other people, two of whom were deaf and unaware of the fire. She and her daughter then fled the building. (Staff photo.)

WOMAN IS HEROINE OF BLAZE

Awakens Five Persons, Two Deaf, as the Flames Awaken Her

Aroused by Mrs. Margaret Landrie, five persons, including a deaf woman and a child, fled to safety today when fire of undetermined origin swept through the Pappass and Hirsch blocks in Hartnett sq., East Dedham, today.

A general alarm was sounded for the blaze, which rekindled a second time and apparatus was sent from Norwood and Boston to help extinguish the blaze which did damage estimated at $25,000.

According to the police the fire started in a hallway in the rear of the Hirsch block, 5 High st., a three-story wooden structure, and spread to the four-story Pappass building adjoining.

Mrs. Landrie, asleep with her daughter Margaret, 11, on the second floor of the Hirsch block, was aroused by the flames which she at first mistook for hail.

Awakening her daughter she then aroused Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jesser, who occupy the same apartment, running across the corridor. Mrs. Landrie tried to awaken Bridget Larkin, who is deaf, and Eliza Both Hurley, who lives with her.

The occupants of the apartment did not hear the cries and rapping, and it was necessary to break in the door to awaken them.

All made their way to the street as the fire-fighting apparatus arrived, and Chief Harry Harrigan sounded a second alarm, and then a general alarm was sent in because of the rapid spread of the flames.

Help was sent from Norwood, while two engine companies from Boston responded. Chief Daniel Sennott of the Boston department accompanied the Boston apparatus and assisted in directing their activities.

Both buildings were badly damaged, the heaviest sufferers being a Pappass grocery store, Hirsch's real estate office, and Santrirose's drug store. Offices were damaged by water.

Sometime later the fire broke out a second time in the second floor hallway of the Hirsch block, but was easily extinguished.

An investigation into the cause of the blaze was being made.

Two-Alarm East Boston Fire Started by Hot Iron

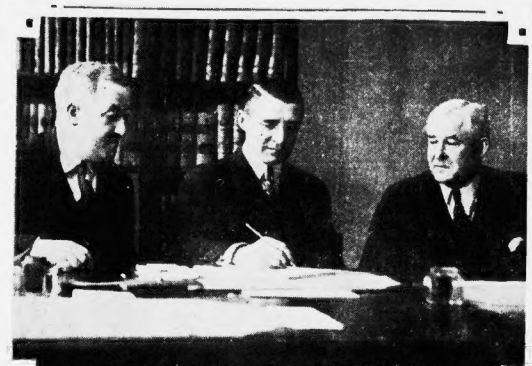
Two alarms were sounded today for a fire caused by an electric flatiron which broke out in the first floor of the three-story brick building, 5 Bennigton and 12 Porter sts., East Boston.

The fire started in Tom's Boston Store, a drygoods establishment owned by William E. and Thomas Alpert, where the current was inadvertently on in an electric flatiron.

The blaze worked up to the second floor, occupied by the offices of Dr. William T. O'Donnell, the third being tenanted by Harrison & Malu tailors.

Deputy Chief Henry J. Powers ordered a second alarm, because of the nature of the district, but the fire was extinguished with the loss estimated at $10,000. The building is owned by Bernard J. Farley.

Legal Powers of State in Conference



Wm. J. Foley — Jos. E. Warner — Wm. G. Clark

HOOVER RUM MESSAGE IS TOPIC

District Attorneys, Meeting With Warner, Refuse Public Comment on President's Plea

Serious crimes in Massachusetts have not increased during the last year, according to 12 district attorneys and their assistants who met in annual conference with Atty.-Gen. Joseph E. Warner at the State House.

Only four murder cases are now in progress, Mr. Warner reported. One will be disposed of this month, while two others developed only recently.

The state of affairs in criminal prosecution in this Commonwealth is considered satisfactory, said Warner.

URGE NEW LAWS.

He declared the officials drew up many recommendations for legislative action but these are not to be made public until the Attorney-General's report is given out in a month.

President Hoover's recent congressional message, which urged people to drink less liquor and other more laws, was classified as "an interesting document" by the group.

The 12 officials refused to comment upon the message, especially that part dealing with law enforcement. The message was discussed informally but not for publication.

Bedroom Burglar Admits 3 Robberies

Andrew H. King, 23, of Maverick st., Chelsea, was held for the grand jury today in the Chelsea district court in $10,000 bonds. He was arraigned before Judge Samuel Bolster on four counts of breaking and entering and of larceny, to each he confessed.

King was captured by Miss Lena Cohen of Congress ave., Chelsea, when she woke to find him rifling her home. He confessed to the police to having robbed three other homes in the vicinity within the past year, which had remained unsolved up to the affidavit it was testified.

Daughter of Police Inspector Is Wed

Miss Elizabeth E. Cavagnaro, daughter of Lieut. Inspector Joseph A. Cavagnaro of police headquarters was married this afternoon in Sacred Heart church, North Wd. to Joel M. French of Marvell, Ark., a commercial artist. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Angelo. Miss Alma Cavagnaro, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid and Joseph Zanino, an uncle, best man. A reception at the bride's home, 45 Kendrick st., Brighton, followed. The couple will live in Philadelphia. The bride's father is widely known in police circles throughout the country.

Will Hunt in Own Preserve in Future

Not having found the deer for which he was hunting with a party of friends in Asconet and Free Town, Oscar D. Wentworth of Murdock st., Middleboro, returned home late empty-handed.

After describing his poor luck to friends, he was casually informed that two deer had been shot on his own premises while he hunted other districts.

Commits Suicide

Arthur W. Evans, 48 of Howard st., Waltham, committed suicide by gas in the kitchen of his home. The body was viewed by Medical Examiner George L. West. It was said he was despondent over ill health.

2 BOYS RESCUED FROM CREEK

William Taylor, eight, of Brooks st., East Boston, and his playmate, James Hurley of Falcon st., were rescued today from the icy waters of Chelsea creek, into which they fell while playing on a staging over the water.

Their cries were heard by Oscar Maxwell of the Boston Lobster Company and Sam Broderick, a drawtender at the Meridian st. bridge, who both dove into the creek, rescued the boys and swam to the wharf of the Boston Lobster Company.

The rescuers were pulled from the water with their burdens by two other bridge tenders, and the boys were rushed to the Chelsea Memorial Hospital.

The Hurley boy was treated for a two-inch cut over one eye, and both for immersion.

REPLY TO 'DRY' G.O.P. LETTER

Chairman Amos L. Taylor of the Republican State committee today crafted a reply to a demand by prominent women members of the party that the committee be called together to take a stand against repeal of the boby Volstead act.

In their open letter to the chairman the women said that any movement favorable to the wets would be construed as in conflict with the policies of President Hoover.

In the last session of the Legislature ten women drys tried to prevent the Senate leaders passing on to Washington the result of th crefeerendum taken at the last election in favor of repeal of the 18th amendment.

A threat by the various women groups to bolt the pest at that time was not carried out.

Freed When He Talks Chinese to Judge

China Tom, "lover of stars," was in the municipal court today as a star actor in a little comedy.

The five-foot Chinese was one of four of his race arrested for being present where narcotics were found in a police raid at a Tyler st. house in Chinatown.

Judge John Duff fined two each $25 and one other $10, and then examined the man who insisted that his only and real name was "China Tom."

In broken English the Chinese explained that he had never used drugs and never would. He then gave up all restraint and burst into a torrent of vigorous sing-song Chinese, shaking his fists at Sergt. O'Neil and Judge Duff.

Even when the judge placed the case on file he continued his harangue of all concerned in his arrest.

Court attendants informed China Tom that the judge could not understand the "lecture," but this only served to increase the flow of words.

During the outburst, Sergt. O'Neil stepped to the bench and explained that the man was regarded by the police as "eccentric but harmless." He is known to them as the "Chinese astronomer" because he walks alone at night, gazing at his beloved stars.

"He talks to 'em," asserted the sergeant.

Finally court attendants had to drag China Tom from the court room. As he passed through the door he resumed broken English to exclaim: "Court no good. All courts no good."

Snow or Rain Due in Hub Over Sunday

An unsettled week-end with rain or snow tonight and tomorrow is the official weather forecast for Boston and vicinity.

Snow is expected tonight in northern New England and either rain or snow is expected in southern New England over the week-end. Three inches of snow fell at Greneville, Me., today. Nearly a half-inch of snow was recorded at Burlington, Vt., and a trace was reported at Portland. With the mercury at 6 degrees above zero Greenville reported the lowest temperature in New England today.

WREAKS HAVOC IN AUTO CRASH

A milkman was injured, a green house and a milk wagon damaged and two wooden fences flattened in Brighton today when an automobile careened wildly after sideswiping a Boston Elevated street car.

The injured man is Gray Boyden, who suffered contusions and bruises. He lives at 19 Sanford st., Mattapan.

Boyden's milk wagon was wrecked, as was the greenhouse of Thomas Keenan, 275 Market st.

The driver of the automobile was Elmer J. Bliss, Jr., of 1962 Commonwealth ave., Brighton, son of the shoe manufacturer. His machine and the sideswiped street car, operated by Orrin R. Witherspoon, collided.

Bliss, hot control and his auto swung into the milk wagon, smashing it and throwing Boyden out. The automobile crashed through two wooden fences and then into the greenhouse wrecking that frail structure.

AUTOIST FINED IN GIRL ATTACK

Leonard Kennedy of Bush Hill rd., Wilson, in Quincy court today was fined $50 for assault and battery on Miss Ruth Sullivan, 18, of Lillian st., Randolph after the girl had told of an automobile ride which ended in the overturn of the car.

Miss Sullivan testified she and a girl companion were in Mattapan sq., when Kennedy offered them a ride to Randolph.

The girl said he began making overtures to her shortly after the girls entered the car.

Her girl friend leaped to the street, but Kennedy increased the speed of the car and she found him until the machine was dirven in Water st., Randolph.

Lynn Police Must Report Accidents

Acting Chief Edward D. Callahan of Lynn has ordered officers who are called on accident cases to notify relatives of the persons as well as to turn in a complete report.

"I do not want any one to take it for granted because the man reporting the accident said he had notified the parents of immediate relatives that it has been done, as this does not mean anything to us. The acting chief said in general orders.

Plans No Action Against Dr. Donnels

Dist.-Atty. Robert J. Bushnell of Middlesex County stated that there would be no criminal proceedings against Dr. Herbert A. Donnels of Medford, whose second marriage was declared invalid under Massachusetts law because it had taken place before his decree of divorce was absolute, unless such action is requested by the probate court.

5 Places for Middle West on Associated Press Team

BEN TICKNOR IS AWARDED PIVOT BERTH

NEW YORK, Dec. 7 (AP)—As a tribute to the fertile football plains that produced such consistently brilliant teams as Notre Dame and Purdue, the Middle West takes the lion's share of honors in the Fifth Annual All-American consensus, compiled by THE ASSOCIATED PRESS from expert nation-wide opinion and made public today.

On the first team, the "shock troops" of an All-American squad of 33 players, five represent the Middle West, four the East, one each the South and Pacific Coast.

Pittsburgh and Notre Dame, two of the finest aggregations of the year, each gained two places on the mythical eleven, a distinction no team in the country has been accorded in the consensus since Dartmouth placed three men on the first team in 1925.

The East manifested strength in the squad as a whole by collecting 12 out of the 33 places, with nine going to the Middle West, six to the South, five to the Far West and one to the Southwest.

IN the nation-wide poll of opinion taken by the Associated Press, 215 experts contributed their views. They represented newspaper sports editors and writers, Associated Press staff observers, officials and coaches in every section of the country.

There was not an important game anywhere, scarcely a spectacular feat recorded in any noteworthy college contest which was not "covered" or studied by some one or more of these experts.

The results of the consensus show a distinct drift in the "class" of football talent, for the season of 1929 at least, to the Middle West, in contrast with the powerful showing of the Far West in 1928.

THREE of the players on the team were overwhelming choices—Frank Carideo, Notre Dame's great quarterback; Bronko Nagurski, the powerhouse of Minnesota's team; and Joe Donchess, handsome, hard-hitting end of the Pittsburgh Panthers.

Carideo was the choice of 123 experts for the position of field general, outdistancing such Eastern aces as Al Maesters of Dartmouth and Albie Booth of Yale, each of whom faded at the finish, largely through injuries after dazzling starts.

Donchess was selected for one of the end positions by 121 votes, but his runningmate and fellow townsman, rangy Wesley Fesler of Ohio State was not far away with a total of 99.

Nagurski presented the problem of being a leading candidate for fullback as well as tackle.

"RED" SLEIGHT, 203-pound dynamo of the great Purdue line, led all the tackle contenders with 82 votes. He has the fiery 210-pound Nagurski as his runningmate, with Sam Wakeman of Cornell and Ted Twomey of Notre Dame ready for emergencies.

Notre Dame furnished the outstanding guard on the list in Jack Cannon who, with 88 votes, led his nearest rival, Bert Schwarz of California, by 20. Schwarz carried off the first team prize in a close contest with Ray Montgomery of Pittsburgh, called "the perfect guard" by his coach, and "Firpo" Greene, Yale's big captain.

FOR the first time since 1923, Harvard places a man on the first team through the brilliance of Ben Ticknor, outstanding choice for center. Ticknor is marvelous all-around work, especially in the Yale game, evidently gave him the call over Reigels, blond captain of the University of California.

Had the All-American ballots been cast the first week of November, it is doubtful whether Albie Booth of Yale or Al Maesters of Dartmouth could have been kept off the first team with a crowbar.

They were the most talked-about ball-carriers of the year, but injuries in the Yale game put Maesters out of action and Booth, also hurt, failed to star against Harvard. These developments, coupled with the consistently sensational work of a number of other backs, helped determine the choice of Carideo of Notre Dame, Toby Uansa of Pittsburgh, Red Cagle of West Point and Tony Holm of Alabama for the all-American backfield.

MR. BOSTON

by JACK CONWAY

"THE curtain will drop on the football season in New England at Fenway Park this afternoon when two teams of college stars battle at a Christmas charity game under the direction of the Crosscup-Pishon Post," said Mr. Boston today.

Jack Conway

"OF course I'm going to take in the game. So is everybody else who like to see a high class gridiron clash and at the same time help one of our most worthy charities.

"Some of the best of the New England college football heroes will do their stuff in the Fenway Park skirmish. Joe McKenney of Boston College and Arthur Sampson of Tufts will direct the rival outfits.

The best of the college football officials will keep things humming on the field of play.

"The game is merely another fine effort on the part of the membership of the Crosscup-Pishon Post to do something worth while.

"I UNDERSTAND that Dan Carroll has closed a deal by which he has taken over the management of Charley Parker of the South End and Goody Schwartz of Cambridge.

"These boys were brought to the front by Eddie Davis. The latter recently was admitted to the Massachusetts Bar and intends to devote his time to the law game in future.

"Parker and Schwartz are a couple of promising youngsters and with experience should make good in the ring.

"JACK SHARKEY tells me he will leave for New York to-morrow to attend the 10-round bout between Phil Scott and Otto Von Porat, which will be staged at the New York Garden on Monday night for the benefit of the Christmas Basket Fund of the New York American. Sharkey is anxious to see Scott and Von Porat in action, as he may be called upon to meet the winner at the opening of the New York Garden's new Stadium at Miami, Fla., in February.

"THE winner of Monday night's bout and Tuffy Griffith are the only available opponents for Sharkey with Max Schmeling still doing his fighting in signed statements released to the press from Germany. Herr Max threatens to return to the United States to appear in a bout at the Atlantic City Auditorium in February. He would not be adverse to tackling Von Porat in the event the latter slams Scott on the chin.

"COL. BOB McKIRDY didn't hand Big Boy Rawson any bargain when he matched him with Al Friedman of Roslindale for an Arena Club show a week from Monday night. Friedman takes the place of Riccardo Bertazzolo who is nursing an injured duke.

FARRELL AND DIEGEL FIGHT FOR PRO TITLE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 7—Either Leo Diegel or Johnny Farrell will be the next United States professional golf champion.

That was settled when the former eliminated Walter Hagen, 3 and 2, and the latter put out Al Watrous, 6 and 5 in the semi-finals of the National Professional Golfers Association tourney over the Hillcrest course and qualified to battle it out for the crown in the 36-hole final today.

Seeking his sixth P. G. A. title, Hagen saw his chances swept away before a rush of pars and birdies that streaked from the clubs of his keenest rival—the same rival who a year ago eliminated him from the ranks of contenders.

SUPER GOLF

Diegel shot sub-par golf; Hagen par. It is the answer to the advance of the slender pro from Agua Caliente, Mexico, and the reversal of a challenger who now holds the British open title, has twice sat on the national open throne and five times in the past has ruled the roost in the P. G. A. circles.

Diegel toured the Hillcrest Country Club course in 68 in this morning's round to lead his opponent, two up, at the halfway point. Hagen shot a respectable par 71.

Two times in the two rounds, "breaks" aided Diegel and necessarily worked against "The Haig." One down at the seventh, Diegel captured the eighth to square the match with a par 4 to Hagen's 6. Diegel's ball was headed for some brush, but glanced off a spectator's heel and bounded back toward the green. He chipped up nicely and putted in. Meanwhile, Hagen found a trap, had a poor out and missed a putt to take a 6.

The 21st hole brought Diegel a three up lead after he had hooked his drive into a fence and the ball had bounded back into the fairway. He eventually posted a birdie three to Hagen's four.

HAGEN COMES BACK

Hagen won back the 22d and 23d to become one down, but that was as close as he ever came to squaring up the match in the afternoon. Diegel took the 25th and 26th to go three up again and at the 29th he boosted his lead to four up.

The "Haig" made one desperate rally and won back the 31st and 33d. Two up and three to play, he was unable to equal Diegel's par three on the 34th and lost, 3 to 2, the same score by which he lost to Diegel in 1928.

Farrell played steady, although not spectacular golf to pile up a three-hole lead at Watrous at the end of the morning round.

They were all square at the ninth, but Farrell won the 10th, 13th and 14th on the incoming trip. Watrous took the 15th, but Farrell came back with a birdie four on the 18th. Farrell shot 73 and Watrous 74 in the first round.

WATROUS CRACKS

Watrous' game cracked on the third nine and Farrell proceeded to pick off five holes to reach the 27th, eight up. Farrell shot par for the nine and his opponent went up to 40.

After halving the 28th, Watrous rallied to win the 29th and 30th but halved the 31st hole and saw his chances swept away, 6 and 3.

Bristol Five Is Looking for Games

The Bristol Town team of Bristol, R. I., is seeking basketball games with any of the fast semi-pro clubs in New England. Teams seeking action communicate with Joseph P. Quartaro, 155 Franklin st., Bristol, R. I.

FOREIGN TEAMS TIED IN RACE

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—The final day of the six-day bicycle race at Madison Sq. Garden found two hard-riding teams tied for first place, three bunched for second position and three deadlocked for third. The other three teams were scattered. The long grind ends late tonight.

The leaders were Georgetti-Debaets and Letourner-Broccardo, who had circled the pine saucer 2035 miles and nine laps each. But only a lap behind and always threatening the leaders were the combinations of Spencer-Deuberg, McNamara-Belloni and Hill-Walthour.

During the late night and early morning hours there were many sprints and lap stealing, during which the leadership changed. The weary riders were marking time and conserving their energies for the last desperate rallies before the race ends at 11 o'clock tonight.

McCoy and DeVito in Go at Grand

Bob "Bibber" McCoy, Cambridge heavyweight star, will step forth in his own right as a main bout star in the Grand Opera House next Thursday night when he will meet Joe DeVito of Providence in a return match, two falls out of three to a finish.

Thursday night they stole the show at the Arena when they battled through 33 minutes of the roughest wrestling a local ring has seen in many months. At the conclusion, McCoy was dropped twice by right crosses that would have done credit to Big Boy Rawson, and DeVito was disqualified for roughness by Referee Charlie Donnell.

Lucy Recs Battle to Hold League Lead

BLAKE FIELD, East Cambridge, will be the Mecca for all soccer fans today when the league-leading Lusitania Recreation eleven battles the second place Fore River team in a State League contest.

A single point separates the clubs and, with two points at stake today, a victory for the shipbuilders will put them out front.

LUCYS FAVORITES

The Lucys are favorites today, with the advantage of playing on their home pitch out tomorrow, and the Shipbuilders will be credited with the edge on the spacious Fore River territory.

A couple of weeks ago the elevens met in the national cup and the Lucys emerged victorious after a bitter fight, by the odd goal, which only increased the rivalry between the pair.

Since then the Shipbuilders have been considerably strengthened by the addition of a couple of new players, Craig, a fullback, and Arrowsmith, a center halfback.

No two elevens were ever more evenly matched, both in offense and defense, and it is only a question of which team gets the breaks in deciding the issue.

Interest in the clash especially among the Portuguese fans in East Cambridge is at a high pitch and they are willing to bet all kinds of money that their club will come through with a victory.

Bob McIntyre will lead the attack of the Lucys and Freddy Greer will steer the Shipbuilders and the contest between this pair is a feature in itself.

Irrespective of which team wins, the fans are certain to witness a stirring battle in which no quarter will be asked nor given and there are sure to be a big crowd on hand when the referee starts them on their way.

The kick off in both matches is slated for 2:30 which means that they will be finished in daylight. Bob Majura has been chosen to referee today's tilt while Bill Andrews draws the assignment for tomorrow.

Brown-Northeastern on Aggies Ice Slate

Amherst, Mass., Dec. 6 (AP)—A dozen games appear on the Massachusett Agricultural College hockey schedule announced tonight. Brown and Northeastern are new comers on the slate, and these two games will mark the first appearance of the Aggies on artificial ice in several seasons.

The schedule:

Jan. 7, Conn. Aggies; 11, Hamilton at Clinton, N. Y.; 19, Army at West Point; 16, St. Stephens at Annandale, N. Y.; 18, Brown at Providence; 20, Bates; 24, New Hampshire at Durham; 30, Bates at Lewiston; 29, Northeastern at Boston; Feb. 8, Amherst; 8, Conn. Aggies at Storrs; 12, Williams at Williamstown.

SOX TO TRAIN IN PENSACOLA, FLA.

Pensacola, Fla., was decided upon today as the training grounds of the Red Sox for next year. This announcement was made by Secretary Hy Mason. President Bob Quinn had several fine offers from southern cities but made his decision this morning on receiving word from Mayor J. N. Baylis of Pensacola that a new clubhouse, capable of accommodating 50 players would be built.

The battery candidates of the club will leave for camp on or about February 24 to be followed two weeks later by the rest of the squad. While in Pensacola, the Red Sox will make their headquarters at the San Carlos Hotel.

Kotsonoras Aims at Title Contest

With a crack at the recognized world's champion in the offing for the winner, George Kotsonoras, the sensational Greek titleholder, and John Poddubny, the spectacular Russian champion, will enter the ring bent upon ending the mat career of the other when they collide in a finish match at the Boston Arena on next Wednesday night.

The bout, for two out of three falls, will top the big all-star program to be offered by the popular promoters, Mrs. Ada Tuohey and Leslie Showers.

Williams Five Opens Against Clark Univ.

Williamsport, Dec. 7—Williams opens its basketball season here tonight with Clark University of Worcester for its opponent. The visitors have provided plenty of opposition in past years and they are expected to prove a good test for the Purple in the initial contest.

Charley Caldwell, successful football coach at Williams, who has turned out two Little Three champions in as many years, is serving as head coach in basketball for the first time this season and he is anxious to see his charges make an auspicious start on the court.

Squash Stars Play at Harvard Club

The greatest amateur squash racquets players of the country will compete today and tomorrow at the Harvard Club in the fifth annual renewal of the series of matches for the Locket cup. Teams representing Philadelphia, New York and Boston will engage in a round-robin and the 21 players nominated for places on the three teams include practically all the country's ranking amateurs.

The first engagement will see Philadelphia and New York coming to grips this afternoon, while Boston will oppose the winning side tomorrow morning and the losing side tomorrow afternoon.

LEGION HOLDS CHARITY GRID GAME AT FENS

THE outstanding senior members of many of the New England college football teams of the past season will participate in a charity grid engagement for the benefit of the veterans' Christmas relief fund of the Crossecup-Pishon Post, A. L., at Fenway Park, this afternoon.

It will be the most unique football game that Boston has seen. Both are all-star lineups of athletes who will be playing their last game of amateur football and many of them will be making their first appearance on a Boston gridiron.

The two squads have been drilled by Coaches Arthur Sampson of Tufts, Joe McKenney of Boston College, Bunny Corcoran of Holy Cross, George Lowe of Dartmouth and Bill Armsby and Jack McMannon of Boston College.

SAMPSON LIKES SHEA

Sampson, head coach of the Navy team, was agreeably surprised to find that the lottery of players had given him the services of John Shea, captain of the University of New Hampshire team, who, according to Sampson, is the best forward passer he ever saw.

Shea will play a prominent part in the forward passing contest which will be conducted by the players prior to the game. Prizes will be awarded for the most skillful passing, the best drop-kicking and the longest and highest punting. Every member of both sides will be eligible for these contests which will be judged by the officials.

Forward and lateral passing will dominate the offenses of both sides. Play of an unusually open and spectacular type was indicated by the coaches, not only because of the type of offenses with which they rehearsed, but also because of the character of the back and ends on both sides.

McKenney and Sampson were delighted with the high grade material with which they were presented and both predicted an interesting game. The weather reports were for a mild and clear afternoon. Fenway Park officials assured the Crossecup-Pishon sponsors that the field will be in excellent condition.

ARMY VS. NAVY

Programs containing identifications for every player will be available so that it will be easy to keep in touch with the progress of the game. Each player will wear a huge number on the back of his jersey and the programs will have a corresponding number beside his name. One team will be known as the Navy and will wear dark blue, while the other will be known as the Army and will be garbed in red.

Although the first sale was brisk there are plenty of good tickets available. Fenway Park has accommodations for 35,000 and indications are that the attendance this afternoon will be appreciably above 20,000.

The full squads follow:

Army—Hesseltine, Middlebury; Mahfood, Holy Cross; Cox, M. A. C.; Brackley, M. A. C.; Lyons, Boston College; Tansey, Norwich; Creedon, Boston College; Finn, Holy Cross; Dougherty, Holy Cross; Sweeney, Holy Cross; Cullum, Holy Cross; Gibbons, Providence; Rooma, Dartmouth; Cole, Dartmouth; Bianchi, New Hampshire; Ellert, M. A. C.; Green, Boston College; Munroe, Brown; Murphy, Boston College.

Navy—Munson, Brown; Mann, M. A. C.; Herman, Boston College; Jeremiah, Dartmouth; Zande, Providence; Caruli, Boston University; Tutten, B. U.; Carnicelli, Holy Cross; Kucharski, Holy Cross; Barrett, B. U.; Dincolo, B. U.; Alzerini, Holy Cross; Shea, New Hampshire University; Convery, Boston College; McDonough, Dartmouth; Babcock, Brown; Fuller, Bates; Guaranaccia, Middlebury; McLeod.

FUN STARTS AT 1:15

The game is scheduled to start at 1:45, but will be preceded by one half an hour of the passing and kicking contests. At the conclusion of the game the players will return to the Brunswick Hotel, there to be the guests of the legion post at dinner.

Their services in helping to increase the Christmas relief fund for the wounded service men will be recognized by the presentation of gold wrist watches.

Henry Janco and Hennessey Battle

Matchmaker Sam Price of the Casino A. C. of Fall River has completed his card for Monday night. Besides the double windup of two eight-round contests between Henry Janco of Lawrence and Frankie Hennessey of Fall River, and Nat Kawler of New York and Phil Richards of England, there will be three other bouts of six rounds duration.

16 Invading Amateur Boxers to Reach Hub Today

CANADIANS IN BID FOR HONORS

THE twilight shadows today will mark the arrival in the Hub of 16 invading amateur ring champions from Montreal, Toronto, Grand Rapids and New York, who will vie with 16 Boston representatives for fistic honors in the first international amateur boxing championship of the season, which will be staged at the Boston Arena, next Monday night under the direction of the New England Association of the A. A. U.

IT'S the first important tournament of the season which will wind up with the New England and national championships, the big stake events in simon pure boxing.

Out of town boxers, who are due here today are expected to complete their training for their important contests at Jim Toland's gymnasium. It will be the headquarters for all the visiting ring gladiators and no doubt the Hub representatives will be on hand to get a line on their ability.

With 24 bouts scheduled in the eight championship classes and Boston represented by a harder punching team than for many seasons, it is expected that the tournament will prove the most successful of any ring season fixture of the past. As a special incentive for all the boxers of the tournament, the referee announced that prizes will be awarded all the competitors.

THE winners in each class will be awarded 17-jewel watches with 15-jewel watches for the runners-up. The other boys in each class receive consolation prizes of exceptional value.

Although it was expected that Joe Lillich, Holy Cross heavyweight, would compete in the tournament, college regulations prevented him from accepting a place on the Hub team, but Tony Cecchi, Charlestown, and Willie Andrisano, East Boston, are expected to provide plenty of action for the invading giants.

The Canadian cities of Toronto and Montreal are eagerly looking forward to victory in this tournament. These cities, like Boston, will be represented by the best teams in many years. In George Warner, a flyweight, Grand Rapids, will uncover a boy who is said to be better than Jimmy Kerr, who won the national title in that class last year.

FRIEDMAN IS TO FACE RAWSON

An injured right hand, the same big fist that was hurt in the Jim Maloney fight, will prevent Ricardo Bertazzolo, giant Italian heavyweight from boxing Big Boy Rawson at the Arena a week from Monday night.

Manager Phil Buccola, director of Bertazzola's affairs, told Matchmaker Bob McKirdy that his big heavyweight would not be ready to fight Rawson for a month. McKirdy immediately got in touch with Al Lippe, Philadelphia manager, and signed Al Friedman, popular Roslindale heavyweight, to meet Rawson on the original date, one week from Monday night.

"I don't think Bertazzolo will ever fight me," said Rawson. "We were scheduled to box last Monday night, and he put it off because he wanted more time to train. Then we were scheduled for a week from Monday night, and once more he runs out. I've been training for three weeks.

"I'm in the best shape of my career, and I insisted that McKirdy get an opponent for me. I'll fight anybody in the world, and I'll knock out anybody I fight. Bertazzolo knows I'll flatten him, and I'm telling you now that I'd flatten Friedman."

Friedman is popular here because of his many whirlwind battles in local rings, both as an amateur and as a professional. His great fights with Ernie Schaaf and Jack Gagnon installed him as a favorite.

SHIRES' PERMIT TO FIGHT IS HELD UP

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—The professional pugilistic career of Charles Arthur Shires, White Sox first baseman, appears about to be shorning.

Maj.-Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission, has issued an order holding up the permit for Shires to engage in a preliminary bout with one Mysterious Dan Daly of Cleveland at White City Monday night on two counts.

The first count is that Gen. Clinnin and the commission, in spite of diligent search, have failed to find anyone who has met a Mysterious Dan Daly of Cleveland either socially or fistically, and there will be no fight until a member of the commission views such a person in fighting costume.

The second count is that Fred Gardner, a member of the commission, watched Shires in a workout and leaned toward the opinion that Charles Arthur was too much inclined to thrust salient parts of his anatomy unprotected into the path of his sparmate's punches, and is not a real good fighter.

Spoon Best for Force Shots, Says Smith

By HORTON SMITH

U. S. North and South, and French Professional Champion

IN my previous article, I discussed the importance and thrill of making brassie shots. I will now consider the problem of so-called "force shots" in which the brassie often is erroneously employed, instead of the spoon, when "forcing" is absolutely necessary.

First, I will describe in brief the accepted theory of the correct brassie stroke.

It is better to aim, as it were, at a point away in front of the ball rather than to hit at the globule and then stop suddenly in an attempt to jerk it into the air. Try to think of the ball as being in the center of a circle, one half of which is described from the top of the swing down to the ball, and the other half from the ball to the conclusion of the follow through.

Nearly all fouled brassie shots are the outcome of some attempt to jerk the ball unnaturally out of the position in which it is lying. If the shot is played smoothly and easily, without forcing and with maximum follow-through, it is surprising how easily the ball will rise from the face of the club.

ONE has only to note the easy manner in which first class amateurs and professionals play their brassie shots, to appreciate what can be done with this club, even from the most unpromising lies.

The club is placed to the ball; a quiet, easy, smooth swing is made, and the ball soars away just as if it were struck from the tee. There is no digging or delving, no jerking or wild lunging at the ball.

Rarely, if ever, does a good golfer play a forcing shot with a brassie. He knows the club's limitations, and whether the risk is worth taking. When the lie does not warrant the use of a brassie, and the utmost length is imperative, he reverts to a spoon.

It is bad to force with any club, but it is certainly better to force with a spoon rather than with a brassie. The occasions when forcing with a spoon are permissable are, I think, as follows:

1. When the utmost length is essential and the ball has to be played from such a very bad lie that to take a brassie would be dangerous and risky.

2. When a very long shot is demanded and it is essential to stop the ball quickly on the green as, for example, when one is called upon to play over a guarding hazard onto a shallow green with serious trouble beyond.

IN the case of 1, to force with a spoon is pardonable, because the conformation of the ground makes the taking of a brassie a risky experiment.

And in case of 2, if we were to take a brassie we should be inviting disaster in the trouble over the green, even though we were making it easy for ourselves to get over the guarding hazard. In such a case an extra long shot with a spoon may get the ball over the first danger, and yet stop it short of the second.

In both cases a forcing shot is allowable simply as a choice of the lesser of two evils.

40 BOXERS IN ST. JOE'S SHOW

More than 40 of the leading amateur boxers in New England, the greatest entry list for any amateur show of the season, will meet tonight in Mechanics Building when St. Joseph's T. A. S. will start the elimination trials in the New England Golden Glove tournament.

The show has attracted boxers from Greater Boston, Milford, Weymouth, Hudson, Lowell and scores of cities and towns in Massachusetts, and is expected to result in the best night of fighting that a local ring has held this season.

There are nine entrants in the 112 pounds class, 10 in the 118 pounds; six in the 126 pounds; four in the 135; eight in the 147 pounds class; and so up the list to the heavyweight division. The eight winners tonight will become eligible for the Golden Glove finals.

The entrants in the 118-pounds class are Edward Snydeman of Taunton; Charles Hixon of Milford, Al Brennan of East Weymouth, George Ferdinand of East Cambridge, Jack Miller of Cambridge, Sammy Caro of Boston, Gene Caggiano of East Boston, William Hagerty of Dorchester, Rinnie Herrick of Allston and Charles Hickey of Hudson.

The 147-pounds class, where the boys are small enough to be fast and large enough to be thumpers, has attracted Tommy Lourie of South Boston, Walter Rochevills of Medford, Chris DeRosa of East Boston, Jack Scheeran of Jamaica Plain, Charley Clayton of Dorchester, Raldo Savelli of Milford, and Bernie Wallace of Lowell.

CATHOLIC FIVES FORM LEAGUE

SCHOOLBOY basketball of Greater Boston gets a big boost in the announcement that the Catholic high school league has a regular court schedule made up. Six teams play in the league basketball games, which start in January.

Schools which have court teams entered for the league contests are: Immaculate Conception high of Revere, Mission Church high of Roxbury, St. Clement's high of Somerville, St. Mary's high of Brookline, Our Lady high of Newton and Cathedral high of Boston.

The league schedule calls for each of these teams to play one game a week, which leaves room on the program of the schools to slate games with schools outside the league.

The first four schools mentioned above had teams entered in the league football schedule which ended on Thanksgiving. The Mission Church eleven tied with the Immaculate Conception high team of Revere for the Cardinal O'Connell Trophy.

No playoff is possible, so the teams will hold a half share each in the valuable silver cup donated by Cardinal O'Connell as a prize for the grid championship of the circuit.

The entry of six teams in the court list of this league augurs well for the future success of the circuit. Four teams were on the football schedule. Now six fives are ready for action, and there probably will be seven or eight teams in the league when the baseball season rolls around.

In just a year or two, judging from the rapid growth of the Catholic high school league, the association will rank in strength with the best high school groups ever formed in the State.

Suburban League coaches and faculty managers are the guests of Tom Hines of Brookline today at his camp in Winnesquam, N. H. The party left yesterday and was all set for three days of fun in the great open spaces.

After the hard grid season, all the coaches are tired out and are glad to get this chance to relax and swap yarns for a few days. The party breaks up tomorrow when the men return to Boston.

The Lieut. George R. Meehan schoolboy swimming championships will be held in March. Just where the title races are to be put on has not been settled, though Brookline's municipal swimming pool, mentioned as the scene of these races, will not be the place of the contests.

Boston school swimmers are ready for the season, and will be in fine condition when the title swim races are put on. If the pool selected for the Meehan championships is conveniently near to Boston, and the date favorable, a flock of the Hub natators will plunge after the titles.

McMillen to Battle Hagen on Hub Mat

BILLY AVERY will present his third all-star wrestling show of the indoor season at Mechanics Building next Wednesday night, December 11, with one of the best balanced cards offered in this city.

The feature attraction between Jim McMillen, the former University of Illinois All-American football star, and George Hagen, the sensational "bone crusher" from Brooklyn, promises to be one of the most spectacular heavyweight mat bouts of the season.

Both of these star grapplers have been bowling over their opponents regularly and to the winner will undoubtedly go a match with Dick Shikat.

Hagen, a giant Dane and the man who broke George Calza's right leg with his famous toe hold a year ago in a match in Chicago, is being sidetracked by most of the outstanding contenders for the heavyweight crown.

It was only after considerable difficulty that Promoter Avery got McMillen and his manager to agree to the match.

The semi-final duel between Jimmy Londos, the Greek champion, and Joe "Bull" Komar, the scrapping Lithuanian, is also attracting plenty of attention owing to the great rivalry that exists between these two outstanding stars.

In the third tussle George Calza, the Italian champion, goes to the post against Buck Olson, the Swedish giant from Minneapolis, while the second argument of the evening finds the brilliant new Russian find, Ivan Demetroff, opposed to Hans Steinke, the German giant.

McKenney Picked As All-Time B.C. Quarter

WITH the "All" season in full swing and the sport pages cluttered up with the selections of everybody who ever saw a football game right from Knute Rockne down to John J. Gridgoer, a new one is herewith presented.

It is the "All-Time" Boston College football eleven selected by Frank Reynolds, retiring graduate manager of athletics at the Heights.

This offering is doubly appropriate inasmuch as it is now the open season for picking these teams and also because Reynolds, when he quits B. C. in January, closes an era of ten years of managing Boston College athletics.

Reynolds took over the office at B. C. in 1919. With him came Major Cavanaugh. In the very first year Boston College was placed on the grid map by this pair. In that season the Eagles defeated Yale by a score of 52-0.

Before that time B. C. was nothing more than a prep school as far as football was concerned. And the 1919 victory over Yale was the first time that notice was served to all and sundry that B. C. had a real college football team.

Since that time B. C. has grown steadily until it is now listed with the major football teams within the bounries of the good old U. S. A. And Reynolds is the only one connected with B. C. football who has watched the rise of the Maroon and Gold from its lowly state in 1919 up until now.

Frank doesn't claim to be a football expert. But here's his choice of players who have played for him in Boston College grid history, which really didn't commence until 1919:

John Dixon	Left End
Art McManus	Left Guard
Jack Heaphy	Center
Con O'Brien	Right Guard
Warren McGuirk	Right Tackle
Luke Urban	Right End
Joe McKenney	Quarterback
Jim Fitzpatrick	Left Halfback
Pat Creedon	Right Halfback
Al Weston	Fullback

IOWA TO KNOW FATE TODAY

Chicago, Dec. 7 (AP)—The matter of the University of Iowa's plea for reinstatement to the right to engage Western conference athletic teams in competition after Jan. 1 today still was unfinished business.

After a two-hour discussion of other matters last night the faculty committee on athletics of the conference postponed action until today. The meeting was secret and little real information of what occurred during the meeting could be obtained.

Rumors persisted that Michigan, Chicago and Illinois were favorable toward the plea, while Northwestern, Wisconsin, Indiana and Purdue were listed as favoring reinstatement. Ohio State and Minnesota continued as "doubtful."

The serious attitude of the coaches and Major John L. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner, as they left the meeting indicated that Iowa faced a battle in getting back in.

Iowa officials were confident, however, that their efforts to correct alleged abuses in the athlete system, would meet the approval of the committee and reinstatement would be granted.

Stribling Fights Carnera Today

Paris, Dec. 7 (AP)—William Lawrence Stribling today faced a second opportunity to whittle down the mammountain, Primo Carnera, to ordinary heavyweight size as 30 brave his own pride and that of American pugilist in general.

Stribling lost on a foul to the Italian giant in London a few weeks ago.

Betting o nthe return engagement was comparatively light in Parisian sporting circles, but the little money apparent seemed to favor Carnera, largely perhaps because of his size. He will have a weight advantage of something like 50 pounds over the Georgian.

NEW FACES IN COUGAR LINEUP

LINEUP AT GARDEN

BOSTON BRUINS		DETROIT
Gainor, lw		rw, Aurie
Welland, c		c, Goodfellow
Clapper, rw		lw, Erwin
Owen, ld		rd, Noble
Shore, rd		ld, Hicks
Thompson, g		g, Beveridge

Detroit Spares—Rockburn, Cooper, Hay, Conners, Brophy, Bugess, Faseoff at 8.30. Three 20-minute periods.

By BILL GRIMES

AFTER a four-day rest, the Bruins are fully recovered from the effects of the recent Western trip and the killing pace of last Tuesday night's game with Les Canadiens and are primed for a battle with the Detroit Cougars tonight at the Boston Garden.

Although the Bruins are still out in front in the race for the American division title, they are so close pressed by the Chicago Blackhawks that they cannot afford to be other than at the peak of their game.

In eight starts the Bruins have been returned winners six times, for a total of an even dozen points, but they have only a full game advantage over the Windy City outfit which is going with running games have picked up two odd points by virtue of tie games.

Bill Grimes

Manager Art Ross will not publicly known his starting line-up until just before game time Against the Flying Frenchmen, the Bruins' play opened with Conner Weiland at center and Dutch Gainor and Billy Clapper on the wings Also, he made a shift in his defense line up by sending Marty Barry, who was the leading scorer of the Can Am Cup series last season, to the left working with Bill Carson and Harry Oliver, holding Perk Goldsmith out of action until he tossed a third line into the fray.

BEST LINE

The Gainor, Weiland-Clapper line has been the Bruins' best scoring combination. It has been mainly responsible for the success of the team this season. And, judging from the playing exhibited by the trio against Canadiens it is the smoothest functioning forward line in the N. H. L.

Only on rare occasions do Gainor, Welland or Clapper attempt to solo the puck through the defense. Instead they use a dazzling and most beautifully executed type of combination play, which has beaten every team they have met with the single exception of Chicago.

The recent, but by no means unexpected rounding into form of Marty Barry is a great asset to the Bruins. By his fine playing of late, Barry has worked his way from the third line to that of Carson and Oliver, which gives the former New Haven star an opportunity to play with a couple of veterans who know every trick of the game.

Teamed with Carson and Oliver, Barry should display marked improvement and as he is a fast skater, a hard worker and a great shot, he would soon establish himself as a fixture.

With the exception of Tiny Thompson, who has had a stormy life up to the present, the Bruins' defense is pretty well shot to pieces. Capt. Lionel Hitchman is far from right, and it is doubtful if he will be able to face the Cougars, while Eddie Shore and George Owen, who have carried the defensive load since their leader was forced to retire, are battered and bruised.

GALBRAITH ON DEFENSE.

If the going is as rugged as expected, Perk Galbraith will see service on the defense tonight. Perk is a fine defense player, one of the hardest in the league to shake off, but, as yet, he has little time to acquire a knowledge of defensive play as required under the new rules.

After a slow start, the Detroit Cougars are just now swinging into a winning stride Manager Jack Adams is gradually replacing veterans with young blood. He picked up a star in Goodfellow, who was so good that the Cougar mentor shifted Herbie Lewis out to left wing.

A year ago, Lewis was ranked with the top notch centers in the N. H. L. but he had been forced to relinquish his berth to Goodfellow.

Manager Art Ross announced that he had sent Bob Taylor, right wing to Philadelphia on loan and that he had recalled Bill Hutton defense player from Philadelphia Taylor has been sent to Philadelphia for seasoning and will be subject to immediate recall by the Bruins.

GOODFELLOW'S ACT BROUGHT BIG RESULTS

Some years ago a Goodfellow, through the Boston Evening American reached down into a dark, cheerless basement room and extended a helping hand to a hungry and hopeless old man.

Into a drab and despondent existence came brought sunshine and hope, with the result that today a letter was received from him, signed, "A Grateful Old Man," and containing a $5 contribution.

"I live as cheaply as possible," he wrote pathetically. "As I am not able to travel around very much I stay in and read the American or a book.

"I saved this five dollars for your fund just to give a gleam of sunshine to some poor gloomy soul. Your papers will do as they like and they know where it will do good. And may God make their own hearts happy in bringing a little joy for the coming Christmas is the prayer of

A GRATEFUL OLD MAN."

The GOODFELLOW EDITOR thanks "A Grateful Old Man," and assures him that the money will be given to bring happiness to some older sufferer at the hands of Fate.

SICK AND HUNGRY

Perhaps someone else may be rescued from a situation such as he describes in his letter

"May God bless the American, the founder of the Goodfellow Club," he began. "Years ago at about the week ending in Christmas time, I was living in a dark basement, sick, hungry and hopeless when just like an angel of mercy one of the ladies who were aiding the poor ones, through the Goodfellows, heard about me from some landlettered neighbor, who knew how ill I was.

"Little did she think when her smiling face came in to me on the result her visit was to have in one old man's life. She thought: She will be comfortable for a little while anyway.' She was a worker with her heart in it.

"I was given money for the rent, furnished with good food, and after she supplied me with tobacco, she then sent coal and wood. Did she then forget me? No, she appealed through the Goodfellow Editor and friends were directed to me, and since I have not wanted a meal or anything I really needed for lack of means I was taken from the basement and gave a comfortable room, and from then on my bills were paid.

YOUNG MOTHER

Dear Editor:

"I am a young mother 23 years old. I have six children, four girls and two boys. The oldest girl is in the next girl 4, boy 3, girl 16 months, and a baby boy one month old.

"My husband has been in the hospital for a nervous breakdown, but is now earning $8 to $10 a week doing spare work, which only gives us enough to eat on. The cold weather is here and I am beginning to get worried as to where I am going to get clothes for the children, especially the smallest baby, who arrives here and has to be kept very warm.

"I had an unhappy Thanksgiving, but am hoping that some Goodfellow will lighten us with a Merry Christmas.

Cambridge. Mrs. M.

Come on, GOODFELLOWS, do your share to lighten the loads of the unfortunates. When famine and little children, there are many whose Christmas will be a dreary and desolate affair unless someone steps in to give them a hand.

If you cannot afford the time to deal with the family of families direct, send your check or your money to the GOODFELLOW EDITOR and he will see that it is take care of as many cases as it will cover.

Following are a few specimen cases in need of aid:

CASE 1. Mother of three boys is very ill. Father has been ill for a long time and can't find a job. Boy 10 badly in need of shoes, rubbers, and warm clothing.

CASE 3. Widow with girl 6, and boy 7, has been out of work a couple of months. She would appreciate anything.

CASE 4. Mother would like clothing for 14-year-old girl who is ill with T. B. Father has been out of work.

CASE 5. Little girl 13 years, would like warm clothing for herself and her two small brothers, 12 and 9 Mother is ill and father has been unable to get work.

CASE 6. Four children in family, 11, 9, 7 and 4 years. Father, a World War Veteran, has been out of work three years. Any one would be thankful for any help given her.

CASE 7. Six children in family Mother ill in hospital, Aunt would like some help as her husband is only working part time and can't provide for all.

Curley Election Good G. O. P. Strategy

Editor Boston American:

Now that the turmoil of the Boston mayoralty election has subsided political writers and others politically minded are checking up the assets, liabilities and casualties resulting from the campaign and election. While the victor and his supporters are jubilating over the election, far-seeing Republicans with thoughts of 1930 are also happy because they see in the result a feeble, not a formidable Democratic State leadership under Curley Throwing Republican sports will soon show signs of revival when they consider the extraordinary fact that a candidate backed by the full support of the Democratic State and city organizations with a slogan of "all together for 1930" aided by 60 per cent of the local Republican committee received only 20,000 plurality in a city which last November gave Gen. Cole a plurality of more than 90,000 and Senator Walsh 114,000.

Twelve thousand Republican voters saved the day for Curley. It will take more than four times that number of Republicans to save the day for the Democratic State ticket under the leadership of Curley next November. That leadership must continue for the Democrats who abdicated and surrendered to Curley know full well that even a successful attempt to depose him would make a bad matter much worse.

Therefore it seems that the mayor-elect is a Republican asset, a Democratic liability and casualty. Here we see the strategy of the Republicans who saved the day for Curley. We may not working for Republican success in the State election next November? I wonder!

Who Knows Date of Car-Cutting Penalties?

Editor Boston American:

Now that we are about to enter the tercentenary year, when Boston can look backward as well as forward, it is interesting to read about the old laws which govern this city.

There is this law, which has not been revoked, about people not having attended church services within a specific time being punished by having their ears cut off I found two accounts of this being done, but cannot verify the year that this took place. That persons had their ears cut off for not being religiously inclined there is not doubt.

I would like to have the answer, through this column, on the exact year. A. T. T.

Can't Tell Boston Women Anything

Editor Boston American:

Can you inform me who said in a public speech in Boston, some years ago, the following

"Oh, yes, you can tell a Boston woman when you hear her talk but you can't tell her anything."

I ventured one day to ask a Harvard instructor "Did Mark Twain say this?" He at once replied: "Mark Twain was no so wit."

He could not tell me anything about it. Since then I have asked the same question of others, but received no information. Can you give any?

They Shall Not Pass, Motto of Drivers

Editor Boston American:

There is one question that I would like to have the readers of your Letters to the Editor answer

Has a pedestrian any show in Boston streets when traffic officers are not in sight? For instance, stand on the corner of Ashburton pl. and Somerset st. and try to cross the roadway. You can go it if there is a big lull of the auto traffic.

I wish that automobilists would only be courteous to the pedestrian. Some do, but very few Once in a great while you find one that will stop his machine and let you pass. I wish that those automobilists who want to hog the whole street and let people stand for ten minutes on the sidewalk would try to justify themselves. M. T. D.

Quakers Built First Brick Church Here

Editor Boston American.

It was the Society of Friends that built the first brick meeting house in Boston on what was formerly called Brattle st.

From 1664 to 1808 they held regular meetings. Then they put up a similar structure on Congress st. The Puritans did not build the first brick meeting house as has been stated.

One of these buildings stood till April, 1825, and was then sold and demolished. The remains of those buried in the grounds outside the church were removed to Lynn in 1826.

Radio Speakers Should Use Notes

Editor Boston American:

After listening over the radio to several speeches from different sources, I have arrived at the conclusion that it is better for some speakers to write out their speeches and read them over the radio. Some are not accustomed to make an address without notes and venture with too much freedom into that diet I agree with the Rev. William L. Sidger, pastor of the Copley M. E. Church, who strenuously advises the use of a manuscript over the radio. As this comes from a fluent and correct speaker, it ought to appeal to others so that we may have correct English and phraseology over the air. HENRY T. BOWEN.

Clergyman Paid $50 for Common

Editor Boston American:

In answer to Mr. Brockleback's question these are the facts:

Boston Common was first owned by the Rev. William Blaxton, who held a grant for the whole peninsula, having his farm on the Common, for which he paid $50. Today it is worth a hundred million or more.

Boston Stone on Marshall Lane

Editor Boston American:

Your correspondent will find Boston Stone on Marshall lane, near Hanover st. This is the only relic of a paint mill which a painter brought out from England about 1700 and used in his shop close by.

The stone bears the date 1732 and you will find it imbedded in the foundation stone of the building, where it has been for years. C. R. BENTLEY.

FOX PUTS BOARD IN CONTROL OF INTERESTS

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Control of the motion picture interests headed by William Fox today was vested in a board of trustees in which the Western Electric Company and a firm of Wall Street bankers is interested

The board, which was appointed by Mr. Fox, consists of himself, John Otterson, president of Electrical Research Products Inc., a subsidiary of Western Electric and H. L. Stuart of Halsey Stuart & Co.

The Fox Film Corporation and the Fox Theaters Corporation are the principal companies in the Fox holdings under supervision of the board. Fox is president of both The announcement said:

"During the year the Fox Theaters Corporation purchased substantial holdings of stock in Loew's, Inc. The Fox Film Corporation has purchased stock of the Gaumont Theaters in England. It was contemplate that the purchase of the Loew s. ck would be a step in the purchase of the assets of the company.

The board was formed, the statement continues, to facilitate permanent financing of the projects.

PLANS FOR NEW MEXICO REVOLT

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 7 (AP)—The recent Mexican presidential campaign apparently has been transferred today to the northern side of the Rio Grande, with Jose Vasconcelos, the defeated contender, threatening an insurrection, and Pascual Ortiz Rubio, President-elect, belittling Vasconcelos' statement as "of no consequence."

Vasconcelos arrived here after having been last reported at El Paso Wednesday, when he crossed the border a few hours behind Rubio.

He signalized his appearance in San Antonio by declaring he fled to America to escape "persecution assassins," and asserting he would return and capture the presidential chair by armed force as soon as his followers could be organized.

THE GIRL WHO JUST MISSES BEING POPULAR

Not Always to Blame, Says Love Problem Expert

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

AN interesting problem of a popularity is suggested by the following letter from a club of girls:

"Dear Miss Fairfax.

"We are constant readers of your column and certainly have enjoyed your answers to puzzled ones.

"We are a club of girls ranging in age from seventeen to nineteen and now have come before a question which we feel might be answered by someone who understands the problems of young girls—one who will give us advice so that we may be able to guide ourselves. And as we have come to you with our problem.

"We have been in existence about six years as a club, and we know each other 'like an open book,' Among our members is one in particular who is rather forward in her ways and looks—one who makes a bad impression upon whom we are ashamed to introduce to our friends, but who has a heart of gold and would do a real friend in need. We feel that this is not the girl's fault, however, as her parents are apparently also blessed.

"We have taken up the matter of speaking to the girl in a friendly manner so that we could make her see our side of the story, but it seems as though none of us can pluck enough nerve to speak to her on such a vital subject. When at the meetings (after company), we make mistakes such as:

"'Please don't speak so loud.'

"'Oh, Ann, your hair looks terrible.' Can't you comb it?'

"'Your dress would be so much more becoming if it were a little longer.'

"But she has such a good heart and is so willing to do her utmost for another.

"We have even taken up the matter of asking her to resign, but oh, how ungrateful that will be, as she has been such a good member, and up to the minute in her dues! Yet some of the members absolutely refuse to let their daughters associate with such a girl.

"We are awaiting your reply and trust that you will solve our problem. We thank you.

"PUZZLED ONES."

Yours is a very delicate problem, as it is difficult for you as a member of your club and do not wish to hurt her, yet she is not looking in certain niceties of manner, appearance and conduct that she is outside the pale of good breeding required by your club.

I agree with you that she is not altogether to blame, since her parents are also at fault in matters of breeding and manners. And since she is such a desirable member in so many respects, especially when it comes to qualities of character, like sincerity, punctuality, dependability and kindheartedness, I agree that if you can help her to do so, it will be wise to keep her as a member, provided she gradually improves in regard to her personal appearance and politeness. On another point I also agree with you—she must be taken up as gently as possible.

Now the question simmers down to this: How can you help the fellow club member know that unless she improves in neatness and dress, in voice and manners, she will be dropped from the club?

One section of your problem seems to present a resolution, and no doubt it is at a business meeting. Perhaps this is in mind as the boards [illegible] upon their members associating with girls who are careless because of loud talking, extreme of dress and lack of personal neatness and cleanliness. Or it revealed that any club member guilty of slovenly dress, bad grooming, such as unkempt hair, or violations of taste, such as ultra short skirts and loud colors, and who had developed traits of infringing a club rule and shall be so informed by a committee appointed to report infractions of the rule.

Then the member improves, in the course of a certain [illegible] a period of four weeks, be dropped from membership.

This resolution will of course, pass since you are girls of one mind on the subject. I believe your friend has so much real sweetness of character that she will ask herself frankly whether she is living up to the new rule and will try to do so hereafter.

But unless she makes an honest effort and the results are obvious in due time, inform her through your committee that she had persisted in violating a rule vital to the high standard of your girls, then drop her from membership. I sincerely hope, however, that will not be necessary. For the impression me, from your description as a fine and charming girl despite her fault.

Many a girl who wonders why she just misses popularity may solve her difficulty by reading Puzzled Ones. A soiled shoulder strap in evidence, lingerie showing at the top of the blouse, runs in stocking seams, muddy stockings or a run in the silk, run-over heels and fingernails with colored fancy instead of a neat, dark dress at the office, a shrill or whining voice due to lack of poise—do not let any or all of these flaws cheapen you in the eyes of others, lessen your self-respect or nip in the bud what might otherwise prove a beautiful romance.

"Another Crank Note!" Said Bryce

notes were delivered at the same time with orders that they be brought to the home of William Bryce at 10 o'clock Friday night and at 12:30 Friday night. The operator in the Mission at telegraph office stated that a man who looked like a boyhead had tossed the envelope and hurried away before she had a chance to run from her desk to the counter.

The death note, on the other hand, had been mailed at 8 o'clock Saturday morning and from a Bowdoin Square postoffice.

Bryce tried to reassure his daughter-in-law but his own heart turned cold with that message. It was a cruel one.

He turned it over to the detectives.

"His automobile drove into his garage Friday night at 10:15. He and his wife had been visiting friends. They went into the house. The machine was not removed from that garage until Saturday morning when Burns went to his work. He was there all morning. He didn't get the ransom.

"And today he drove down to Roxbury. He's down there panicking with his wife and another couple. Two hours ago they were sitting at the Spring Valley Inn.

"Lay off, Burns. He's not done this."

At 4:30 they had a box as nearly like the ransom box as they could make it, at the mouth of the flume. Close to this was a large quantity of meat.

Tim Chase could have shouted when presently, stealthily there, emerged from the shadows the brown setter's head. He made a dive for the bone, saw the box and seized it in his mouth.

Before he had more than sniffed the meat, he was backed down the flume.

Three-quarters of a mile down and within ten yards of a waiting guard, the dog emerged. He went hurtling down the cliff. He had the box in his mouth.

Before any one could reach him, he had disappeared in the brush.

That night they went to William Bryce.

"Did Elliott have a dog A brown setter?"

"Yes!"

Listen, World!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

STEVE can't understand why people don't like him.

Popularity means a lot to Steve. He's a salesman, and no one ever worked harder to get himself liked than he—or with less results. It is a mystery. He possesses and exercises all the qualifications that the Success Hooks advocate. He's good-looking, well dressed—bright, alert, energetic — always pleasing and hustling—a live wire, with a thing good time. Yet he leaves people cold. What's worse, if he tries to press them, they are apt to get sore.

Even when he drops business it's the same. Some men, not half as smart or agressive as Steve, are a riot wherever they go. He can't understand it. They're careless in dress and manner. They say incredibly silly things. They don't seem to give a hang what happens. Yet everyone welcomes them with cheers, while, no matter how hard Steve tries to win them over, folks remain aloof with him.

Of course, Steve senses their indifference in a second. He sees them grow restless in spite of his animated performance. They behave as if they were looking at an act and getting badly bored. And there, if he but knew it, is the answer to his riddle.

FOR STEVE IS JUST PUTTING ON AN ACT

He gives his audience the speech and the gesture which he thinks he should give them, but he never gives the audience HIMSELF.

Steve remains as unreal as any actor to his audience. The listener may become temporarily interested in Steve's lines, but he never becomes interested in Steve, himself.

If Steve could come down from his stage and flop in a seat beside his audience and grin n' borrow a cigarette n' act regular, they'd love him . . . for then he'd be one of them. And his very carelessness and silliness would be dear to them. For it would be part of their own carelessness and silliness. But as long as he stays on the stage, all dressed up and talking smart, Steve remains a show.

Steve could put himself across to his audience and gain the popularity he longs for, if he'd use his imagination, instead of a lot of technique.

FOR IMAGINATION BRIDGES THE GAP BETWEEN LIVES

BUT IMAGINATION WOULD HELP STEVE BE THAT PERSON.

Imagination would throw open the door into the other person's spirit. . . would make him feel what that other person was feeling. . . would actually make Steve a part of that other person . . .

AND THEN THAT PERSON WOULD LIKE STEVE AS HE WANTS TO BE LIKED FOR THERE WOULD BE A ONENESS BETWEEN THEM.

But Steve misses all that.

People are not prospects, to Steve . . . they're PERSONS.

Perhaps you're unpopular, too. Maybe that's why.

'Kind' a Significant Word

By MRS. BEECKMAN

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When you have sent a friend a birthday card, what is the proper thing to say when he or she thanks you for it? I have always said "You are welcome," but this does not sound correct.

2. When a boy (or perhaps I should say a friend) tells you how nice you are looking what should you answer?

This is what was said to me at a party a few days ago: "Jean, you are looking very fine this evening. I like your dress very much. It is very becoming." And I just answered, "Thank you." Was this proper?

JEAN

I agree with you that "You are welcome" does not sound as if it were enough. I think that is what you mean instead of "correct," don't you? "You are welcome" sounds sparse, as if we didn't know quite what to say in return for the expression of thanks. I wouldn't be sorry to say, "It was a great pleasure to be of service," and I am glad that you liked it. Or "I am so happy you liked it," and "I'm glad you found it so much fun." You are very kind to say so," or "You are most kind to say such pleasant things. Thank you so much," or "Thank you, Rob, I am so glad that you like my new dress," or "I'm glad you found it easy to do." Thank you so much. That's high praise from you, for you have such good taste in clothes."

One special suggestion, Jean (keep in mind how very helpful is the expression, "It is very kind of you"). You see, when people do say nice things and when they so graciously express their appreciation of something about us they are very kind, and we should tell them so. "You are very kind." "It is so kind of you." "How very kind of you" notice how often people whom you admire, accustomed people, people with especial graciousness, use the words

Hope for the Nervous

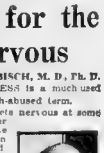
By LOUIS E. BISCH, M. D., Ph. D.

NERVOUSNESS is a much used and much-abused term.

Everybody gets nervous at some time or another—that is, he shows a certain instability leading to anger or worry or confusion or fear or a thousand and one other possible things.

Such mental manifestations are not nervousness in the scientific sense of the word.

In fact, such nerve manifestations are neglible. Nervousness is only important when it occurs and more or less continuously interferes with happiness or work with one's general sense of well being.



Dr. L. E. Bisch

In such cases of nervousness we often find obsessive ideas that the normal people feel they may say something or do something they are ashamed of or afraid of and which, for example in the case of compulsion neurosis despite the insistence of the idea they never actually give way to it.

This particular form of neurosis is known as "compulsion neurosis." The compulsion may be to wash the hands after touching almost anything.

In neurasthenia a nerve exhaustion is the outstanding trouble. Neurasthenia was first after the slightest exertion.

There are those who are afraid of high places or of a full building. Others feel cramped places like an elevator, a small room, a subway. Some are fearful of open spaces like crossing a plaza or a field.

Yet in all cases of nervousness, from "nervous fatigue" to severe mental depression, temper tantrums and other forms of emotional instability, the individual is not long insane that what he fears, or feels he must do, cannot help feeling or doing is really foolish.

But fight it as he will no reasoning on his part can overcome it. He will not any attraction permanently conquers the compulsion.

No wonder, therefore, that so many nervous persons do put. Nobody can help them understand them, and they simply do not understand themselves. They cannot help themselves. They are so different from others not how they developed that way.

Nervousness is a functional disorder.

The nervousness responds and often even after it has persisted in a chronic form of years it may take a specialist to do it and it may take weeks and months to accomplish it, but nowadays methods are available to help those so deeply afflicted.

Nancy Page Quilt Club

By FLORENCE LA GANKE

A DIRECTION LEAFLET that will aid in making the Alphabet Quilt will be sent free to any reader sending a stamped, addressed envelope to Nancy Page, Boston American, P. O. Box 185, Boston, Mass.

BEFORE the club members started working the "I" block they discussed the progress of the quilt thus far. Eight blocks had been made. Since the lengthwise strips which would hold them together were cut in full strips the length of the quilt it was impossible at this time to piece the quilt. But certain piecing could be done. The crosswise strips in white and yellow would be put in place.

Like a and E block were joined, so were the B and F, the C and G, and the D and H. In putting them together the strips of white and of color cut 1½ inches by 6½ inches were joined. Two white ones were separated by the one strip of color.

The long half of three strips now made into a wide strip 3½ inches was sewed between the white blocks. This made the finished strip exactly 2 inches wide since the quarter inch taken off at each side for seam reduced the 3½ to 3 inches.

Nancy did not know whether the "I" block was most pleasing to girl, boy or grown-up. Judging by the popularity of ice cream cones it was planned to call it

The club talked over the kind of ice cream they would put in the cone. The one that was made of yellow or buff fast color gingham. One bright member chose a yellow and white plaid. But cutting it on the bias one had a cone which looked exceedingly natural.

In choosing ice cream the group considered pink for strawberry or raspberry, yellow for French vanilla or brown for chocolate. They believed, after considering it at length, that the white or brown would afford a greater contrast to the buff or yellow cone.

Some of the members put a cherry at the peak of the cream and rome did not. It was decided to embroider the cherry, in any case, rather than to applique it.

The square was cut from newspaper also a square of soft cotton flannel cut on all sides. The cloth was laid over the pattern and the two were put against the window pane. With a sharp, hard lead pencil the outline of letter and cone was made.

ALPHABET QUILT—BLOCK 9—THE ICE CREAM CONE

The newspaper square was pasted to a piece of light weight cardboard or tag board and dried under pressure.

In the meantime the letter "I" was embroidered with fast color green embroidery cotton (green was chosen because the cone-trimming in today's quilt were green). She used a fine outline stitch.

The pattern having dried, the outline of ice cream and of cone were cut out. The pieces were laid on cloth and after allowing one-quarter inch on all sides for turning under were cut. The edges were turned under and the pieces were basted and then pressed.

The ice cream was pinned in place and appliqued with fine, slanting invisible hemming stitches. Then the cone was put in its place and appliqued in the same fashion.

Block 10 will appear on this page in next Wednesday's Boston American.

The Truth

By ELINOR GLYN

GRACIE and Maud.

You may wonder at and perhaps resent, the idea of having to control anything in your lives. The general idea is that the effort would be made to be the "other one." But I often ask myself questions with a commonsense attitude.

I know that playing ball, a ball would fly fair to the ground if you did not use effort. Judgment and skill in holding it back from your opponent. Life, and love, and mating all like a game of ball—neither lover can afford to be slack, or not use his or her keenness and agility.

Elinor Glyn

So remember this, girls, if you have the good fortune to attract a worth while sweetheart, you will certainly not be able to keep him unless you can play the game as well as he is playing it. That is the great danger.

You may think George is the most docile creature, who will stand for any of your caprices.

So he will for a time, and then the fine day you will wake up to find you have lost all power over him.

You can neither hurt nor please him any more. He is numb, and by the law of the boomerang it is you who will turn into the docile creature.

You will be only too glad to "stay put"—if, indeed, your time is not too occupied in grieving over your faded happiness.

Why Does He Fall in Love?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

It is impossible to account for the whims and caprices of attraction, or to tell why a young man is in love with a girl.

Brown Eyes wonders whether weight has anything to do her failure to interest the ng man who interests her.

Dear Miss Fairfax,—Would wn Eyes, You have helped many other girls and boys in r love affairs, won't you help a little?

I am a stenographer, seventeen rs old, with brown curly hair d big, dreamy brown eyes and a dly lovely figure, except that I m a little too plump. Most everybody thinks I am rather attractive, the one I am interested in rely notices me. He has just ished school and has been com to our building quite often to his brother, who has an here I see him every day ll he says is just "hello."

I would love ten pounds of m? Or what step shall I take rd winning this young man' is going away real soon, so are try to help me.

ANXIOUS BROWN EYES."

There is any number of reasons why the young man who just says "Hello" to you, does not display any further interest. Possibly he is in love with another girl. If so, he just can't see you because he has eyes only for The One Girl.

Be charming in your appearance and smile and be a bit deferential to him. If you are too plump according to the standard tables of weights, I suggest that you lose the extra ten pounds.

Some Holiday Desserts

THE experienced housewife running over her list of even unusual desserts is apt to sigh and remark that there is nothing new under the sun. And there isn't. There are only new combinations of well-known things.

Desserts, particularly, continue to be based on standard recipes, but there are new variations which give the same old food a touch of magic.

Martha Lee

For instance, one of our best known and quickest eaten) gelatin desserts is a Bavarian, made by letting a gelatin solution get thick, adding crushed fruit and whipped cream to it and letting it stiffen. This dessert is popular because of its rich flavor and fluffy texture.

Then it can be molded to perfection and will always present a good appearance at any festive occasion. So any variation of the recipe which gives a new personality to this standby is one to be welcomed—especially with the hectic holiday season coming on.

PINEAPPLE-BAVARIAN BAVARIAN

Soak 1½ tbsps. gelatin in ½ cup of cold water for 5 minutes. Mix 1¼ cups of crushed pineapple with 1-3 cup of sugar and 1 tbsp. of lemon juice and heat to boiling. Dissolve the gelatin in the solution. Add the juice and chopped chunks from half a 2-ounce bottle of Maraschino cherries. Cool. When ready to set, add 12 cut-up marshmallows and ¼ cup of cream, whipped. Pour into 8 molds and chill.

RICE BAVARIAN CREAM

Cook in a double boiler 1-3 cup of rice in 3 cups of milk. Season with ½ tsp. of salt. Soften 2 tbsps. gelatin in 4 tbsps. cold water. When the rice is soft, add 2-3 cup sugar and the gelatin, and stir. Let cool until starting to set. Whip 1 cup of cream and fold it into the gelatin mixture along with 1 tsp of vanilla and 2-3 cup of walnuts, chopped. Chill. Serve garnished with more nuts and bits of candied ginger.

Faithfully yours,
Martha Lee

Old rose velvet is employed to fashion a lovely wrap which slips on the hem in long irregular points. A length the fabric is cleverly draped at back and ends in a standing collar of kolinsky. Miss Nancy Ogden Bride Today of Richard Clark Floyd, Harvard Man

Miss Marian Duane Is Presented at Tea; Latest Fashions at Grew Ball

THE LESLIE MEMORIAL [illegible] Church is the scene of the late afternoon wedding of Miss Nancy Ogden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh W. Ogden of Chilton pl., Brookline, and Richard Clark Floyd, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Eugene B. Floyd (Mary Cleveland), also of Brookline, the Rev. James Derickson Cummins of Emmanuel, and the Rev. Ray Leavett of the Harvard Church of Brookline, officiating. The bride's gown is of Blush satin, her veil caught with orange blossoms. She is carrying white roses and valley lilies. Her sister, Miss Elsa Ogden, as maid of honor, is wearing a frock of Venetian red velvet, with a hat of a similar shade and material, combined with lace, with a bouquet of talisman roses. William J. Bingham of Wellesley is Mr. Floyd's best man, and the ushers are Robert S. Ogden, a brother of the bride, the prideroom's brother, Eugene B. Floyd, H. Eugene Sawyer, Jr., and Herbert Jaques. The reception takes place at the Chilton Club.

MISS OGDEN IS A GRADUATE of the Brimmer school and Smith College. She belongs to both the Chilton Club and the University Club of New York. Mr Floyd received his degree at Harvard, where he was varsity track manager in 1911. While in college he was elected to membership in the Hasty Pudding, Institute of 1770, Sphinx, Phoenix, D. K. E. and Varsity Clubs. His present clubs include The Longwood Cricket Club, the Harvard Club of Boston and the Dedham Country and Polo Club. He has figured prominently as one of the school committee in Brookline. Mr. and Mrs. Floyd are to spend their honeymoon in the South and after January 15 they will be at home to their friends at 342 Clark rd., Brookline.

A TEA THIS AFTERNOON served as the formal presentation of Miss Marion Duane, by her parents, Mr and Mrs Harry Brewerton Duane. It took place at their Beacon st. residence. Mrs. Duane wore a dress of wisteria colored velvet as she introduced her daughter to their many guests. The new debutante was frocked in white satin, combined with eggshell tulle and the red roses she carried were a reminder of Christmas which is so near at hand. Miss Eleanor Hollon of Beacon st., whose engagement to Dr. Reginald Smithwick was announced early in October, was in charge of the dining room. The charming group assisting at the tea tables included Mrs. Arthur Perry Collens, Mrs. Harry Brewerton Duane, Jr., Mrs. William Brookfield, the Misses Mary and Helen Curtis, Miss Carolyn Day, Miss Dorothy Hall, Miss Margaret Emerson, Miss Charlotte Hopkins, the Misses Carolyn and Charlotte Cosby, Miss Edith Mitton, Miss Barbara Proctor, Miss Catherine Brown, Miss Frances Shea, Miss Rosamond Bolton, Miss Constance Young, Miss Mary Elizabeth Lowe, Miss Miriam Winslow and Miss Barbara Frost. Many of these were classmates of Miss Duane's at Miss May's School.

MISS ANITA CLARK GREW and Miss Elizabeth Sturgis Grew came here from Constantinople to attend the debutante ball of their cousin, Miss Ethel Hooper Grew, which was given in her honor by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Grew, in the Louis XIV ballroom of the Somerset last night. The Misses Anita and Elizabeth are the daughters of Joseph Clark Grew, American ambassador to Turkey, and Mrs. Grew. The dance was a brilliant success, with the many attractive young people in attendance dancing in their charming evenings gowns, fashioned in the latest mode, and the matrons dividing their time between dancing and taking a birds'-eye view of festivities from the balcony. Both Mrs. William P. Graves and Mrs. Richard S Russell were attired in black while Mrs. Richard Olney chose to wear a blue chiffon and Mrs George S. West a purple one. Miss Kathleen Chase was among those frocked in white, her gown combined with tulle, as was also the one worn by Miss Olga Monks. A white costume was the choice of Miss Catherine Olney, but black was the preference of her sister, Miss Nancy Olney.

MISS BETSEY CUSHING, whose marriage to James Roosevelt, son of Governor and

Mrs. James M. Newell, Jr. (Rives Stuart), of Gibson ter., Cambridge, selling Christmas greens for the New England Farm and Garden Association, which is having a sale of similar things at Horticultural Hall, December 20 and 21.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York is to take place in June, was daintily gowned in pale blue moire. Another attired in gown of blue was Miss Marjorie Mortill Judging by the number wearing it purple is very much a la mode. Miss Edith Wolcott, Miss Elizabeth Keyes and Miss Alice Graves all wore this color, as did Miss Agnes Murchie, whose costume was combined with emerald green. Mrs. Charles Terry Collens was gowned in black tulle and Miss Clara Dupee had on a gown of black tulle with a bodice having touches of bright colored flowers Salmon color was most becoming to Miss Catherine Hedge and Miss Constance Creighton. An eggshell crepe was smartly worn by Miss Anne Sutton. Miss Helen Warren was in attendance, frocked in yellow tulle.

THE LECTURE WHICH J McLEOD AMOUR of Glasgow, Scotland, will give at the Algonquin Club next Wednesday morning at 11 for the benefit of the Boston Children's Friend Society of Rutland st., is assured of a smart attendance. His subject will be "Etchings." Among the patronesses are Mrs Henry Parsons King, Jr., Mrs. Gedeon T. King, Mrs. L. Carteret Fenno, Mrs. George R. Agassiz, Mrs. Edward L. Bigelow, Mrs. John T J. Clunie, Mrs. Augustus F. Goodwin, Mrs. George D. Lewis, Jr., Mrs. Chauncey C. Nash, Mrs. Edward C. Streeter, Mrs. Quincy A Shaw and Mrs. Godfrey L. Cabot. Mrs. Thomas L. Claflin, Brookline, is chairman of the committee on arrangements and Mrs Homer Albers has charge of tickets.

MRS. ARTHUR G. ROTCH'S residence on Commonwealth ave., will be open for a sale of Chinese imports, Christmas gifts and Christmas wrappings Monday afternoon from 2 to 5, for the benefit of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters. Included in the sale are about 10 pieces of antique Chinese pewter over 200 years old. The collection was imported directly from China by the league.

"TEA FOR TIRED SHOPPERS" will be dispensed from 10 30 to 5 30 at the Christopher Shop from December 9, to December 21 inclusive these being the dates of the Christmas sale which is to benefit physically handicapped men and women. The hostess at the tea table being Mrs Elliot Spalding, who will be assisted by Mrs Dana Estes and Miss Mary Gagnon. The Christmas sale will occupy the entire second floor of 355 Boylston st. The Christopher Shop proper will have for sale only those articles made by the patients and it is of interest to see the great improvement that is made from year to year in the finish of these articles Mrs. Wilbur S. Grant is the sponsor for the "Christo Craft" and will be assisted by Miss Dorothy Springer. Mrs. Benjamin F. Pitman, Mrs Ernst M. Parsons, and Mrs Ralph H Doane will be in charge of the maintenance tables. Mrs. Horace Morison has imported for the special occasion French specialties for the kitchen from Douret

MRS CHARLES BARNARD PRINCE of Marlborough st and Mrs. Joseph D. Leland of Rush Hill rd., Milton, will pour at a tea which Mrs. Catharine Gardner will give, next Friday, at the home of her parents, Mr and Mrs George Peabody Gardner, Beacon st., in honor of Geoffrey Hodson. The eminent English occultist, author and lecturer comes to this city to give a series of lectures on the rationale of super-physical sight, under the auspices of the Boston branch of the American Theosophical Society. He will be the house guest, while here, of Mr and Mrs. Chester R Green of Wasnington ave., Cambridge. On Friday the visitor will be the luncheon guest of Dr. Daniel Frost Comstock, the well-known physicist and engineer. Friday evening he will meet the members of the Theosophical Society and their friends at the Boylston st. headquarters. Next Saturday night, at 8 15, at the Copley-Plaza, Mr. Hodson will give his principal address, on "The Place of Clairvoyance in the New Civilization." Mrs Joseph D. Leland will preside. Sunday afternoon, at the Theosophical headquarters at 2, he will address a meeting open to the public on "Spiritual Healing."

DEATH PENALTY HIT IN WOMEN'S CLUB DEBATE

"Make the punishment fit the criminal not the crime."

Mrs. Herbert B Ehrmann, of the Massachusetts Council for the Abolition of the Death Penalty, made this the central thought of her argument in a debate before the club women of the seventh district at the conference in Kiwanis Hall Everett.

Collins Graham, defending capital punishment, declared it to be the keystone to the arch for security of life and property.

He startled the women when he told of personally knowing of juries being "hung up." And after declaring that some court officials were corrupt, and that juries could not bring in verdicts because of such corruption, he stopped.

Mrs. Ehrmann told the women that if people would intelligently read their daily newspapers instead of indulging in theories or statistics of crime they would readily see that capital punishment did not act as a deterrent to murder.

"While Trippi was awaiting execution in the death house," she continued, "a man was murdered next by in the North End. No sooner had Trippi been taken from the electric chair than another man was found dying in Springfield. If capital punishment does not deter at the time of an execution, pray tell, when will it deter?

"The people who believe in the abolition of capital punishment are called sentimentalists. We must not forget that there are two kinds of sentimentalists. The first kind is that type of person who indulges in maudlin sympathy for the prisoner. But the other kind is one who indulges in passionate resentment against him. Neither of these have any place in the serious consideration of a serious problem.

IMPOSSIBLE TO TRACE

"The causes of murder cannot be traced to penalty inflicted. They are caused by facial, social and economic reasons. There need be no fear of wanton pardons of life prisoners in Massachusetts, nor has there been in the past. It is an insult to the governor and to officials to fear placing the public safety in their hands. The type of officials who hold office is not likely to risk public safety.

"Never has there been a second crime committed by a life prisoner in Massachusetts nor has a life prisoner ever murdered a guard. The very existence of capital punishment hampers the administration of justice. Dr. A. Warren Stearns, Winfred Overholser and Herbert Parsons have stated that the penalty of death is an obstruction in the progressive performance of their duty and that Massachusetts should abolish capital punishment.

"Punishment should be made to fit the criminal and not the crime. It is no disgrace to be human, human judgment is fallible nor should one be ashamed to admit it. This is true even in a civilized community is to be unable to correct the mistake.

"Man has made mistakes. We now have in our prisons and before our courts two men, Cero and Sacco, both of whom have been convicted by two juries of the same crime. Now only one man can be right. Why? By the state's own evidence only one man is guilty and yet two juries have convicted both. Has a man been executed last year the state would not have been able to correct the mistake. But now it can and this is why we should not be ashamed to admit the fallibility of humanity."

OUTLINES PLANS

Mrs. Ehrmann told of the council's intention of going before the Legislature again this season with another bill to abolish the penalty of capital punishment in this state

Mr. Graham, speaking after Mrs Ehrmann, ridiculed the issue of such abolition and said the use of life imprisonment in every case where deliberately the death penalty would be called for would lead to absurd conclusions

Clifton Morey of the Massachusetts Chamber of Commerce urged upon the women once again the need for legislation controlling the over-night tourist camps, speaking of the moral angle and the unfair competition they afforded the hotel owners.

Herbert Burgess, a book-seller, defended the need for a revised book law in Massachusetts

The speakers were all introduced by Mrs. Fred L. Pigeon of the legislative department

The questions have been recommended by the S[illegible] for study [illegible] conclusion would make known their view to their State representatives

The women were first welcomed by the hostess club president, Miss Sara F Hall of the Friday Club Mrs Carl Schrader was among the invited guests.

OBJECTS TO RATING

When advised of the new classification of the Veterans Bureau Hospital at Bedford, Department Commander Max Singer of the Veterans of Foreign Wars today issued the following statement:

"It has just been brought to my attention that the Veterans Hospital at Bedford has been reclassified to a hospital with a capacity below 450 beds. This classification having gone into effect as of December 1

"I am utterly opposed to this change for at the present time there are 334 patients at Bedford and at the same time the new wing of the hospital will be opened which will add 136 more beds. This will make the capacity of the hospital 492 beds and I can not see how a hospital of this size, not the capacity, can be classified as below 450 beds

"The personnel of this particular hospital under the new classification cannot in justice to the patients give them the proper attention and care, as it would mean that they would be compelled to take care of more patients and more wards than they are now doing. I am certain that in this particular case this reclassification would be a detriment to the patients involved

"The following telegram was sent to Gen Frank T Hines of the veterans' bureau in Washington

"New classification of Bedford Hospital as of December first unjust both to the patients and employes. New ward building of 136 beds which will open this month will make hospital capacity 492 beds. It is inconsistent to classify 492-bed hospital as below 450 beds Request that immediate steps be taken to give veterans' bureau hospitals at Bedford proper classification. (Signed)

Max Singer, Commander.

This Modern World

Edited by ANN ARDEN

A Department Devoted to Fashions, Decoration and Social Customs. News of Things Which Contribute to Gracious and Alert Living.

This type of frock was seen most frequently at the after-football festivities.

Long skirt lines, and short wrap lines complement each other. The wrap pictured is of white velvet, very youthful and smart, and following the frock lines in its back dip. The wide cuffs are interesting, and the shirring, repeating that on the gown, is a substitute for fur, and in far better taste than an inferior cheap fur trimming.

The model's closely cropped hair is softly waved and knotted cairy out the new fem[illegible] ity. She wears moire slippers; a rhinestone necklace, with back and front motifs, and long dang ring; and, of course, hosiery in flesh tone.

THE entire costume pictured is shown by one of Boston's big shops, noted for high fash ons ow cost. The young miss desiring a wearable and versatile outfit for this festive season could go wrong on these. Any inquiries as to price at the shop where the purchases can be made, will be gladly answered by mail or telephone to Miss Arden.

One of the glittering rhinestone bags might be paired with this outfit, and one may see evening vanities in a wave useful and appropriate. The clever person who long ago said that some of the nicest things come in small packages must have been looking ahead to the invention of the vanity case in its modern guise.

NEW ENGLAND BUILDING IS INCREASED

By FRANK H. MELOON
Financial Editor

New building in New England shows an increase for the first time in several weeks. Figures just furnished us by F. W. Dodge Corp. show the total of new contracts awarded for the week ended December 3 was $10,011,100. The figures for the like week a year ago were $8,155,000. The weekly average for the year to date is $8,009,800. Except in 1927 and in 1919, when exceptionally large individual contracts figured in the totals, this year's mark has never been equalled for the reported week.

* * *

State Street sentiment is decidedly favorable, we find, to the indorsement of Joseph B. Eastman's reappointment as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The Boston member of the I. C. C.

JOSEPH B. EASTMAN

is also regarded in railroad circles as an outstanding figure. New England holders of railroad securities are legion, and are naturally interested in having a "square deal" representative acquainted with the needs of this section on the I. C. C.

Suggestion that Congress authorize the Interstate Commerce Commission to look into activities of railroad holding companies is meeting ridicule in State Street. There it is declared the commission already has piled up many times the work it is able to perform.

Reviewing studies of automotive traffic regulation compiled by American business and financial leaders, we stated several weeks ago that automobile fatalities had not increased in proportion to the increase in the number of automobiles. Complete figures for the past year, just issued by the U. S. Department of Commerce, show the increase in deaths by automobile accidents was only one per cent, amply verifying our observation.

The department fails to point out one fact that seems to us very obvious. This is that accident rates have been reduced very much more by the increased safety appliances and car perfection brought about by manufacturers than by attempts at statutory regulation. The fact is that statutes differ very much in different localities. The so-called experts have so far been unable to arrive at any definite basis for country-wide regulation of traffic. This is a man-size problem.

* * *

The future of the automotive industry is undoubtedly going to be considerably affected by traffic regulations. Too stringent regulation would undoubtedly affect car sales, yet most leaders of the automotive industry show remarkably little interest in the situation.

* * *

Expectations of larger bonuses for Christmas in the financial districts were dashed by the market crash. Many now expect smaller bonuses than were distributed last year, despite the harder work of the current year.

Frank D. Comerford, president of New England Power Association, says: "We have complete faith in the future of New England. We are spending this year over $22,000,000 in construction extensions and additions. In 1930 we will spend over $20,000,000 for further work. We are building new generating plants, including one of largest hydro plants in America, new lines of greater capacity, new substations to care for growth that we know will come. It is clear to me that electric service can be best protected and sold most economically in long run by larger units. Isolated power plants are out of date."

* * *

American Founders Corp. and associated companies will give employes Christmas bonus amounting to 5 per cent of salary received in fiscal year ended Nov. 30.

Men of Ability Avoid Losing Their Balance

A Few Corporations Not Setting Good Example; Stock Lesson

By B. C. Forbes

NEW YORK, Dec. 7—The men and the enterprises that do not have those that maintain their balance. Personal balance begets a bank balance.

There was far too much losing of balance during the stock boom. And despite all the brave protestations now being made, one hears of even large corporations that have lost their balance since the break in stocks.

B. C. Forbes

Now, the truth is that there undoubtedly was room for retrenchment in this organization. It had enjoyed year after year of wonderful prosperity. Rapid expansion of business necessitated rapid expansion of personnel. It was not anybody's particular business to see that the force and expenses were rigidly kept down.

Far kinder and much better business would it have been had the management exercised due vigilance during the period of waxing prosperity. It would not have been any shrinkage during the boom had men not actually needed been asked to find other positions. Moreover, efficient economy would have restricted the number of new employes taken on.

Instead, nothing was done until the panic came. Then, when it was extremely difficult to find other openings, employes were hastily laid off in large numbers.

Unless the great majority of American business organizations exercise balance at this time, what need not prove more than a mild recession may easily degenerate into acute depression. As a nation we are prone to flip to extremes. We carry booms to abnormal heights; then we plunge to the depths of pessimism. That has been our past history, and history has repeated itself in the stock market.

But it is not yet too late to give serious consideration to maintaining balance throughout the industrial and business world. President Hoover has set an inspiring example. Will it be universally backed up by our financial and business leaders by deeds as well as words?

Already those who had sense enough to maintain their balance when the speculative panic reached its height are reaping substantial rewards. Many investment stocks have recovered 25 per cent, and, in a goodly number of instances, 50 per cent from their low quotations of a few years ago. Nor is there anything within sight to suggest that the recovery by and by will not attain very impressive proportions—although, of course, meanwhile it will be logical for the market to have ups and downs.

The stock market need now occasion but concern. Thus business. Will creditable balance be preserved by all ranks of business men? Or will we foolishly have a mental exhibition in the business world similar to what we have witnessed in the financial world?

We should be able to maintain a reasonable measure of our prosperity if we reasonably maintain our balance. If not, not.

Happily, nearly every American who has come to the front in the world of affairs is fundamentally an optimist, animated by faith in the country's future, by confidence in himself, by visions of a larger and ever larger future for his organization.

Now is the time to measure up to whatever test may come. Any fool can lose his balance—and usually does. One dominating characteristic of capable men is that they do not lose their balance.

Shall we prove capable or incapable?

New Financing for Cities Is Sought

Bids for the purchase of New Haven $1,800,000 bonds consisting of a $750,000 City Hall construction issue and a $725,000 sewage disposal plant issue, both due in 30 years and a $325,000 airport issue due in 30 years, all dated January 1, 1930, will be received until 11 a. m. December 19. Bids may be for whole or any part.

Pittsburg treasurer in sending out corrected notice says to ignore notice of sale of $450,000 loan, bids for which were requested until noon, December 10. Instead, $200,000 loan is being offered for the same time and date.

Cranston, R. I., will receive bids until noon December 9 for $500,000 loan dated December 10 and payable December 1, 1930.

NAUMKEAG TO HAVE WORKERS CO-OPERATE

New York, Dec. 7—"Naumkeag Steam Cotton Company of Salem, which has had but one strike in 90 years of its existence, is now working out with its employes a new program of employer-worker co-operation," Agent J. Spencer Turner told the Taylor Society at its meeting here.

"In the old days," declared Mr. Smith, "employer and employe each regarded the other as a natural and inevitable enemy. Happily, this condition is now in fair way towards the limbo of the past. We are on the threshold of a new era. There are more steps to climb before easy going is reached but it is with most sanguine feeling of the ultimate success of our employer-worker cooperative effort that we present a picture of our progress to date.

"Labor at the Naumkeag plant, which is the largest producer of sheets and pillow cases in this country, is organized and the relations between the union and the management were described by Mr. Smith.

His declared that at the present time a schedule providing for the rearrangement of work in every department with the benefit would decrease products costs and at the same time permit of increases in wage rates for those working in the mill under an agreement with the executive committees of the union.

"This agreement," he went on, "provided for the employment by the company of a trained technician and the appointment of a committee representing the management and the union, to act with him in the prosecution of tests on a technical basis, having in mind the elimination of waste in the labor and material, an adtie ultimate reduction of costs. The agreed on further provides for master planning on the part of the management for the diversifying of sales and the forecasting, as far as humanly possible, of continuous operation."

BOND MARKET'S UPTURN SEEN

Recent increased buying activity and higher prices for bonds indicate that the long expected upward turn in the bond market is at hand, according to the November bet investment review of Lawrence Stern & Co., investment bankers of Chicago and New York.

"Among the factors tending toward optimism upon the part of bond dealers," said the review, "is the large decline in large offerings which has resulted in a value for good bonds." This decline probably reached its culmination in November, when the entire volume of new offerings for the past five years was registered."

The review stated that the total volume of new stock, bond and note financing publicly offered in November, aggregated only $178,237,273. This figure represents a decline of 77 per cent from last month's huge volume of $761,134,348 and is 80 per cent below the record-breaking total registered for November, 1928.

All classes of securities participated in the drastic decline in the volume of new offerings for the last month, with the exception of preferred stocks, which showed an increase of $5,320,000 over October. Stock offerings were negligible, aggregating but $6,667,250. While small, the bond total of $141,610,025, however, was nearly four times larger than that of stocks which, it was stated, "strongly indicates a bond market in which normal condition since the first of the year, when stock offerings were almost consistently exceeded bonds."

Despite the heavy decline in new publicly offered financing, the review was a very large volume of securities not publicly offered—that is, distributed by private subscription and in the form of rights to stockholders, etc. This financing amounted to $421,000,000, was almost entirely due to the fact that a large volume of new financing was postponed prior to the stock market deflation, expired during the month. Adding this financing to the month's total, the November volume would be slightly more than $600,000,000.

Statistics compiled by Lawrence, Stern & Co., showing the volume of new financing in November as compared with October and with November, 1928, follow:

	Nov. 1929	Oct. 1929	Nov. 1928
Stocks	$36,627,250	$360,734,050	$367,402,437
Bonds	141,610,025	400,380,298	526,184,000
Tot.	$178,237,275	$761,134,348	$893,586,437

A decline of approximately a quarter of a million in the volume of investment trust and financing company offerings largely accounted for the huge loss in the amount of new stock financing in November, which aggregated but $6,667,250—approximately one-tenth of the total of last month.

Investment trust issues, which comprised approximately 31 per cent of the large volume of new October financing, in November was only totalled $8,875,625 and was but 5 per cent of the total of the small volume of new financing recorded. Industrial stock offerings also showed a sharp decline aggregating only $14,546,750 as compared to $83,335,550 last month. Public utility, foreign and real estate stocks also showed a lower volume and there were no railroad issues

THE WORLD OF FINANCE

CONSTRUCTION AWARDS ARE LARGER

New York, Dec. 7—While the value of contracts let for heavy construction and engineering work throughout the country in the first eleven months of the current year, reaching a total of $3,789,107,000, showed a 13 per cent increase over the same period last year, November awards, based on a weekly average, registered a 3 per cent drop from November, 1928, the Engineering News Record reports. Contract lettings in November were valued at $237,668,000, which compares with $329,934,000 in October and $206,020,000 in November of last year.

Compared with last year, the largest gain reported has been in the Industrial group. Commercial projects also showed a substantial increase and Industrial construction so far this year is well ahead of the same period in 1928.

Grouped according to classes, the sums involved in heavy construction and engineering jobs for which contracts were let in the first eleven months of the year follow:

Commercial buildings	$1,901,342,000
Industrial buildings	521,500,000
Streets and roads	515,759,000
Bridges	129,175,000
Waterworks	6,394,000
Sewers	83,471,000
Excavations, etc.	27,376,000
Federal government	100,870,000
Inclassified	464,220,000
Total	$3,789,107,000

The Engineering News-Record construction cost index number for December is 209.46, which compares with 208.46 in November and 210.16 in November, 1928. The 1 point increase in general costs is due to the advance in the common labor rate.

EARNINGS OF UTILITIES UP

New York, Dec. 7 (AP)—Net earnings of 95 public utility companies, exclusive of telephone and telegraph companies, for October aggregated $33,000,000, an increase of $10,000,000 over the corresponding month of last year.

The Ford Motor Car Co has awarded a contract to the Turner Construction Co. for the erection of an assembly plant for commercial business at Edgewater, N. J., to cost about $3,000,000. The plant is to replace one at Kearny, which has been sold to the Western Electric Co.

Stockholders of Midland Steel Products Co. on Jan. 20 will vote on proposed changes in the capitalization calling for the creation of 200,000 shares of $2 non-cumulative no par second preferred, and 250,000 shares of no par common. It is also proposed to exchange the New York stock on the following basis: One share of 8 per cent preferred and 2 shares of new common for each share of the present participating preferred, and two shares of the new second preferred stock and one share of the new common for each share of the present common stock.

George E. Leonard has resigned as president of the International Combustion Engineering Corp., and has been succeeded by W. R. Wood, who has been acting president. George A. Bourne now serves as chairman of the executive committee.

Piggly-Wiggly Has Increase in Sales

Piggly-Wiggly Corp. reports for 10 months ended October 31 sales of $171,210,000, against $161,096,000 in the same 1928 period. An increase of 4.2 per cent.

Stores in operation on October 31 totaled 2985 against 2839 on same date in 1928. New stores opened from Jan. 1, 1929, to October 31, 1929, were 120.

AT THE DIAL

PROGRAMS FOR TODAY. TONIGHT ON THE AIR

By THE RADIO EDITOR

BERNICE TAYLOR, soprano; Fred Waldner, tenor, and Josef Koestner's orchestra broadcast the Launderland Lyrics program from Chicago over WEEI and a nation-wide network at 8:30. The program follows:

Make Believe, from "Show Boat" ensemble; Bambalina, from "Wildflower" Orchestra; How Am I to Know? from "Dynamite." Tenor solo, Fred Waldner; That's You Baby, from "Movietone Follies" Orchestra; The Girl I'm In, the Boy I'm Me, from "Scandals." Soprano and tenor duet, Bernice Taylor and Fred Waldner; Tell Her in the Springtime, Tenor solo, Fred Waldner; Treasure, orchestra; Alice Blue Gown, Soprano solo, Bernice Taylor; Hallelujah, from "Hit the Deck," orchestra.

WALTER DAMROSCH conducts the orchestra in the General Electric broadcast through WEEI and the NBC Red network coast-to-coast System at 9:00 o'clock. A talk on "Adventures in Science" by Floyd Gibbons will be the feature of the hour. The program follows:

Overture to "A Life for the Czar," Glinka; Two Nocturnes, Debussy, Clouds, Holidays; Hungarian Rhapsody No. 1, Lizat; Adagio for Strings, Lekeu; Bacchanale from "Samson et Dalila," Saint Saens.

HENRY HADLEY will direct his symphony orchestra in a symphonic paraphrase of "Moanin' Low" from "The Little Show" during the Gulbransen broadcast over WNAC and the Columbia System at 9:30. Also on this program are a new composition by Dr. Hadley, "In the Palace of the Khedive," "The Flight of the Bumble Bee" by Rimsky-Korsakoff, and the "Ballet Music" from Moszkowski's "Boabdil."

THE SONG of the Volga Boatman will be sung at 9:30 through station WEEI by Adia Kourzenkoff, Russian basso, who will be guest artist of the Gillette program. He will be accompanied by the Gillette Orchestra, conducted by Don Voorhees. In two other numbers, "Dark Eyes" and "White Acacias," Kourzenoff will be accompanied by two balalaikas. These are Russian guitars, the music for which Kounzenoff transcribed in Russia.

Among the orchestral numbers will be the Triumphal March from Grieg's "Sigurd the Crusader."

GUY FRASER HARRISON, conductor of Rochester Civic Orchestra, featured in the Stromberg Carlson program every Wednesday evening, will act as guest conductor of the People's Symphony Orchestra in its concert at Boston Sunday afternoon.

GLENN H. Browning, nationally known radio engineer, and co-inventor of the Browning Drake circuit, will be heard from WEEI, Sunday afternoon, December 8, Samuel Curtis Radio Chat period. He will be interviewed by Curtis, and among questions he covers will be talking movies, screen-grid circuits, and future developments in the radio industry.

ON Sunday at 5:30 Leopold Stokowski, conductor of the Philadelphia Orchestra, concludes his Philco special series with the following all-French program: Hungarian March from "The Damnation of Faust," Berlioz; Symphony in D Minor (3 Movements) Lento; Allegro non troppo; Allegretto, Allegro non troppo, Franck; Nocturne "Festivities," Debussy.
